FIREFIGHTERS SUSPECT ARSON triggered a blaze that gutted an abandoned building on Rand Road west of Kennicott Avenue Thursday night. The fire, reported at 8:43 p.m., followed on the heels of a blaze at 1:30 p.m. behind the house, which firemen extinguished. The second inferno broke out in the basement of the wood house, and within 15 minutes had spread through the rest of the structure.

Revenue bonds urged for garage

by BILL HILL

The Arlington Heights village administration is recommending issuance of revenue bonds to pay for a $1.5 million parking garage in the central business district.

The recommendation sidesteps opposition from a large number of downtown merchants who have vowed to block the recommendation of the downtown improvements committee to create a special service tax district to pay for the 500-car parking garage.

The recommendation will be reviewed at a special village board meeting Monday.

A report by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, released Thursday, calls for revenue bond financing with funds generated by the parking garage and profits from the village's parking system used to pay off the bonds over a period of 20 years.

THE ADMINISTRATION picked revenue bonds as the financing mechanism over general obligation bonds or a special service tax district comprised of downtown property owners.

"We explored each method very thoroughly and it was our judgment that this (revenue bonds) was the only feasible method of financing," Village Planner Joseph Kesler said.

"General obligation bonds would have been cheapest, but taxpayers would see that as unfair. We decided to let the users pay for it," Kesler said.

The special service tax district has been used by other communities, such as Oak Park and Evanston, to fund downtown improvements, but the assessed valuation of the Arlington Heights central business district is too small to support such a large project, Kesler said.

THE ADMINISTRATION'S report recommends building a private development housing retail stores and offices adjacent to the parking garage, which is to be located on the northeast corner of the intersection of Vail and Sigwalt streets. The proposed site of the shopping plaza-office building now is a parking lot with 65 parking spaces.

The seven-story commercial building "is the key to success" for the parking garage and downtown redevelopment, Kesler said. It is intended to create a demand for parking, add to the assessed valuation of the central business district and general sales tax revenue.

The financing plan for the $1.5 million parking garage is to issue $1.24 million worth of revenue bonds and to sell the adjacent land for the commercial center for about $260,000. The annual debt service for the revenue bonds, if based on a 20-year plan at 7 per cent interest, will be about $117,000. Annual maintenance costs for the garage have been estimated at $30,000.

Village officials are hopeful that a local bank will buy the bonds at a lower interest rate.

REVENUE BONDS for parking garages often are difficult to sell on the open market because a municipality does not have a monopoly on the amount of parking available, Ronald V. Norene, a financial consultant, said in a letter included in the parking garage report.

"A logical investor in this type of bonds for Arlington Heights would be your local banks. As they are familiar with the strengths of your downtown, conceivably they could be persuaded to purchase these bonds for investment at a 6 per cent rate," Norene says in his letter.

"It looks fairly favorable" that a local bank will buy the bonds, Hansen said Thursday.

The financial report estimates that the annual revenue from the parking garage will be about $100,000.

Preliminary plans call for spaces to be leased to employes at downtown businesses for $190 a year and to commuters for $15 per month. A token system in which merchants will pay the parking fee for shoppers may be developed, Kesler said.

Tissue transplant curbs diabetes

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Minnesota surgeon Thursday described the first successful tissue transplant to combat diabetes.

Dr. John S. Najarian, head of the department of surgery at the University of Minnesota Medical School in Minneapolis, said he performed the operation on 25-year-old diabetic patient, Joanne Storer.

Najarian told the sixth International Congress of the Transplant Society his patient now gets two-thirds of her insulin needs from the transplanted tissue, which he placed in her liver 18 months ago.

Najarian said he isolated islets of langerhans — the body's insulin-producing factories — from a donated pancreas, mixed them with about two teaspoonfuls of salt water and injected them into the portal vein — the liver's big blood pipeline.

IN THE SUCCESSFUL "islet transplantation" Najarian said the donated insulin-producing factories took root in the liver and started working.

In advanced stages many diabetics suffer from kidney failure. Najarian said subjects with previous kidney transplants were selected for the human trials because they were on immunosuppressive therapy and less likely to reject the islet transplants. Seven subjects participated in the experiment.

The Minnesota team headed by Najarian has been working on the islet transplant approach to cure diabetes for nine years.

The professor said much "drawing board work" remains before the approach can be applied on a large scale.

But he said it has cured diabetes in rats, dogs, rabbits and mice.

"THIS IS VERY experimental, but hopeful," Najarian said. "It took nine years to get this far."

He estimated it will take another four or five years before the technique will be widely used.

The research is supported by the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases and the American Diabetes Assn. in hope of heping th nation's four million diabetics. Najarian and his associates, experienced in transplants, have performed 160 of the 320 kidney transplants done worldwide for diabetics.

"This initial clinical trial shows the human islet transplantation is a safe procedure," he said.

The islets of langerhans make up about 10 per cent of the pancreas. When, through a genetic defect, they fail to produce insulin, diabetes results.

Officials test 2 ponds for traces of botulism

by DAVE IBATA

Health officials suspect two ponds in the Cedar Glen subdivision in southern Arlington Heights may be infested with botulism, the disease they say recently killed 1,000 birds at Lake O'Hare at O'Hare Airport.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is conducting tests at two ponds at the Prince Charles apartment Complex, 2407 S. Goebbert Rd., located in the subdivision, to determine whether botulism, a food poisoning, killed 50 birds in recent weeks.

Most of the birds killed in the Lake O'Hare and Prince Charles incidents were ducks, health officials said.

FRANK CHARLTON, Arlington Heights assistant village manager, told The Herald Thursday night that he was unaware suspected botulism had been found in the village or that tests had been taken.

Health officials are planning to flush Lake O'Hare and the Arlington Heights ponds to eliminate the contaminated water.

Botulism is a type of food poisoning contracted by birds feeding on decaying fish or drinking polluted water. Toxin produced by botulism bacteria does not contaminate human beings unless humans eat birds suffering from the poisoning.

Symptoms of botulism include nausea, vomiting and abdominal pain within 12 to 36 hours after eating contaminated food, followed by weakness, unsteadiness, dryness of mouth and throat, and blurred vision, a spokesman for Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, said Thursday.

Fatal respiratory failure is the greatest risk of botulism, the spokesman said.

Most cases of botulism in the United States are caused by improperly canned vegetables, fruits and fish products, the spokesman said, adding that to contract the disease a person must eat the contaminated food.

Burglars hit lockers at Evergreen again

Burglars again have raided storage lockers in an apartment complex in the Cedar Glen subdivision in southern Arlington Heights, police reported Thursday.

Police said the manger of the Evergreen Court Apartments, 2222 S. Goebbert Rd., notified them Thursday morning that 13 storage lockers had been broken into at the complex.

Police are awaiting a list of stolen property. Police said the burglars pried off lock hasps from the wooden frame of the lockers sometime before Wednesday.

Burglars reportedly have broken into more than 50 lockers in apartment complexes in the subdivision since early July.

Stalemate in Dist. 59 contract talks

A stalemate has been reached in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 teachers' contract talks with the first day of school only 10 days away.

Alma Parrish, teachers' union president, said negotiations broke down Wednesday when "we got into a stagnant situation. We left it that the board would call us when they could move" on the items being negotiated.

She said union negotiators had planned meetings with the board today and during the weekend "in hopes to get things ironed out. At the end of Wednesday's meeting negotiations seemed to come to an abrupt halt." Those meetings were canceled.

JUDITH ZANCA, board president, said she "hopes we're not in that serious a condition. We're still negotiating." However she termed the situation "a stalemate."

Mrs. Zanca said the administration contacted board members Thursday to "see where they want to go" with negotiations.

Mrs. Zanca said, "The only issue left is money," although Mrs. Parrish said teachers also are concerned about establishing a method for releasing teachers because of declining enrollment.

Mrs. Parrish said she does not think the union demands are "way out of sight" and terms the situation "very critical."

She said union leaders have set plans for future actions if a settlement is not reached by the first day of school.

The teachers had planned a mass meeting to show support for the union negotiators.

A boycott of the schools next week also has been discussed. Although teachers are not required to be at schools until Sept. 3, many have been returning early to prepare their classrooms.

Botulism probed at two area ponds

Health officials suspect two lakes in the Cedar Glen subdivision in southern Arlington Heights may be infested with botulism, the disease they say recently killed 1,000 ducks and other birds at Lake O'Hare. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Thursday confirmed the birds at the O'Hare Airport lake died of the food poisoning, and said they are conducting tests at two ponds at the Prince Charles apartment complex, 2407 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights, to determine whether botulism killed 50 birds, mostly ducks, at the site in recent weeks. Botulism is a type of food poisoning contracted by birds feeding on decaying fish or drinking polluted water. It does not contaminate human beings unles humans eat birds suffering from the poisoning. Authorities said they will flush Lake O'Hare and the ponds to wash away contaminated water.

Probe cause of fatal plane crash

An investigation will continue today into the cause of a plane crash in McHenry County Wednesday night that killed two Schaumburg men. Donald M. Hayes, 34, of 1224 E. Algonquin Rd., the pilot, and Louis Leavitt, 22, of 1204 E. Algonquin Rd., were killed when their single-engine plane plunged into a field north of Woodstock. Police reported a witness said the plane was flying low over the treetops when it crashed nose first into a farm field. Police said the Cessna 150 crashed about 60 minutes after taking off from DuPage County Airport, West Chicago. A federal Aviation Administration official said the plane was registered to the International Flying Club, 1220 E. Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg.

Teacher pact talks 'very critical'

A coalition of teachers' unions says contract talks in three Northwest suburban school districts are "very critical" and could possibly result in strikes. Judy Berlin, a spokesman for the North Suburban Unified Bargaining Council, said Thursday negotiations in Prospect Heights Dist. 23, river Trails dist. 26, and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 were declared very critical by the teachers' group Wednesday. Ms. Berlin said Mount Prospect Dist.57 may be added to the list today depending on the result of bargaining sessions Thursday night. Districts termed very critical by the teachers' group are subject to "job actions" such as strikes, Ms. Berlin said.

Thompson leads Howlett, poll says

by STEVE BROWN

New poll results in the race for Illinois governor continue to show Republican James R. Thompson running substantially ahead of Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett in suburban Cook county.

The Herald has learned that a poll, taken by American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, shows Thompson leads Howlett by a 76-to-16 per cent margin, with 8 per cent of those persons questioned undecided.

Thompson and his aides refused to discuss the poll. Neal Bratcher, district director for the union, would say only that "we have information that shows if the election were held today, Mike Howlett would be in big trouble."

BRATCHER REFUSED to confirm the statistics obtained by The Herald but did say that the difference between Thompson and Howlett was substantial in suburbs.

Bratcher said the poll was taken as part of the union's effort to initiate a voter registration drive and as an attempt to elect candidates to the Illinois General Assembly who would be favorable to the union in key districts.

He said full, statewide information on the poll will not be available until early next week. The data regarding the suburbs has been discussed privately by various political leaders for about 10 days.

The union poll continues to show Thompson's apparent lead over Howlett in various parts of the state.

THE HERALD reported the results of a then-secret poll taken by the Republican candidates and the Illinois Republican Party by Market Opinion Research of Detroit in mid-May that showed Thompson well ahead of Howlett in all regions of the state except Chicago. However, Thompson polled about 40 per cent of the vote in Chicago, which is considered by most observers to be a substantial accomplishment for a Republican.

Howlett and his aides have attempted to discount the polls during recent appearances, but they have not been able to produce research that shows their candidate ahead of Thompson outside Chicago.

"The only polls I care about are the good Polish people of Illinois who go to vote on election day," Howlett has said in recent interviews in reacting to reports he is behind.

Ford behind Carter by 10 points: Gallup

President Ford, resting and conferring with advisers on campaign finance problems in Vail, Colo., got a psychological boost from a Gallup poll released Thursday which showed him within 10 points of Carter in public opinion ratings.

The survey, conducted Aug. 20 to 23 after the GOP convention, sampled 1,016 registered voters in more than 300 "scientifically selected localities." It showed Carter leading Ford by 49 to 39 per cent, with 12 per cent undecided.

That was in sharp contrast to the 23-point lead Carter held in the same poll two weeks ago and the 33 points lead he held right after the Democratic convention in July.

Media to play key role here for Thompson

by STEVE BROWN

ANNA, Ill. — Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson plans to devote more attention to personal campaigning Downstate and rely on television and his reputation as former U.S. Attorney to carry his campaigin in the suburbs.

Thompson told The Herald of his plans for the final 70 days of his campaign against Illinois Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett while traveling between appearances in downstate Union County earlier this week.

Thompson also indicated that he needs to raise at least $800,000 before Nov. 2 to finance his media campaign.

HE SAID HE spent eight hours taping a series of 30-and 60-second commercials at various locations around the state for showing during the final weeks of the campaign.

THE COMMERCIALS will be used mostly in Chicago. Thompson said that he does not believe personal contact campaigning in the suburbs or Chicago will accomplish as much as if he spends his time Downstate where he is not as widely known.

"Let's face it, the best way to reach the people is not by going to suburban shopping centers, but through the media," he said as his 26-foot motor home traveled between Herrin and Anna.

"If the people don't know me up there already then no amount of handshaking is going to help me now."

Thompson spent 3-and-a-half highly publicized years in the U.S. Attorney's office in Chicago, gaining wide recognition for winning convictions against a number of police officers and politicians, including former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

He admitted that Howlett probably will raise about $3 million in the campaign — $1 million more than Thompson indicated he can expect to collect. Thompson said he has appointed a new fundraiser, Michael Dunn of Rockford, to coordinate statewide efforts.

Mystery ill kills 2 from church function

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Two persons who attended a religious conference addressed on its final day by President Ford have died from the so-called "Legionnaires Disease," bringing the death toll from the mysterious ailment to 28, the state Health Department announced Thursday.

The two victims attended the 41st International Eucharistic Congress of the Roman Catholic Church, at which President Ford spoke on Aug. 8. Previous victims had connections with the state American Legion convention which met here July 21-24 and used the Bellevue Stratford Hotel as its headquarters.

A department spokesman identified one of the victims as Sister Mildred Trzil, 71, of the Sacred Heart Convent in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who attended the Aug. 1-8 Catholic congress and visited the Bellevue-Stratford on three different occasions. She died Wednesday and was stricken Aug. 12.

The other victim was identified as Stanley Kuccek, 62, Munster, Ind., who attended the congress and stayed at the Bellevue-Stratford.

The congress was a function of the Roman Catholic Church and drew about a million participants to the city.

President Ford addressed the final day of the congress at John F. Kennedy Stadium in south Philadelphia, some three miles from the hotel and did not visit the Bellevue.

However, Ford did visit the Bellevue during the July 4 Bicentennial celebration. Health officials have been surveying those who stayed at the hotel from July 1 to see if they contracted the ailment.

When asked in Vail, Colo., about how President Ford was feeling in light of the developments, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "The President is feeling fine, as you can see."

Ford had been playing golf, and UPI reporters with him said he was looking well.

Meanwhile, health officials investigated the possibility the mysterious ailment may have been caused by a deadly poison gas called nickel carbonyl.

Dr. F. William Sunderman, Jr., a toxin specialist at the University of Connecticut Medical Center, said concentrations of nickel three times above normal were found in tissues he examined from some of the Legionnaires who died.

"These results somewhat further the suggestion that nickel carbonyl exposure could be a factor in these deaths, but our results are by no means conclusive," he said.

Sunderman said the concentrations found in the tissues were "within the fatal range" of nickle carbonyl poisonings reported in industrial settings.

Robert Costello, a spokesman for the state Health Department, said the nun was on the list of those known to be sick with symptoms of the disease, but Kuccek was not.

He said Kuccek died Aug. 17 but the delay in linking it to the disease was because officials could not contact relatives to verify he met the criteria for the ailment.

Costello said the toll now was 28 dead and 149 ill. He said of those ill, 11 were still hospitalized and 2 were in critical condition.

The discovery of nickel carbonyl, a tasteless, odorless, colorless gas used in the manufacturing of plastics, synthetic garments and other products, could be the first major medical clue in identifying the mysterious ailment.

Don Berreth, a spokesman for the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., said "at this point our laboratory analysis is inconclusive."

He said higher than normal levels of the nickel carbonyl had been found in some tissue but other samples did not produce similar results.

Dr. Lewis D. Polk, Philadelphia health commissioner, said the "comments were interesting but inconclusive as yet."

Chessie hostages freed unharmed

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A Vietnam veteran and former employe of the Chessie System Inc., disgruntled over a job layoff, held a vice president of the railroad and six other employes hostage with a sawed off shotgun and a pistol for nine hours Thursday and then surrendered to police.

All of the hostages were released unharmed.

Ashby Leach, 30, Huntington, W. Va., who was wounded in Vietnam and later underwent psychiatric treatment in a veteran's hospital, was led out of the Terminal Tower Building in downtown Cleveland at about 6:50 p.m. Leach had held the hostages in the executive offices on the 36th floor of the building.

When Leach, in a sweat shirt and dungarees, came out of the building he raised one arm and yelled something to a crowd of about 200. The crowd cheered.

Howard Skidmore, of Chessie's Public Relations Department, said Leach "put down his weapons after seeing the national news at 6:30."

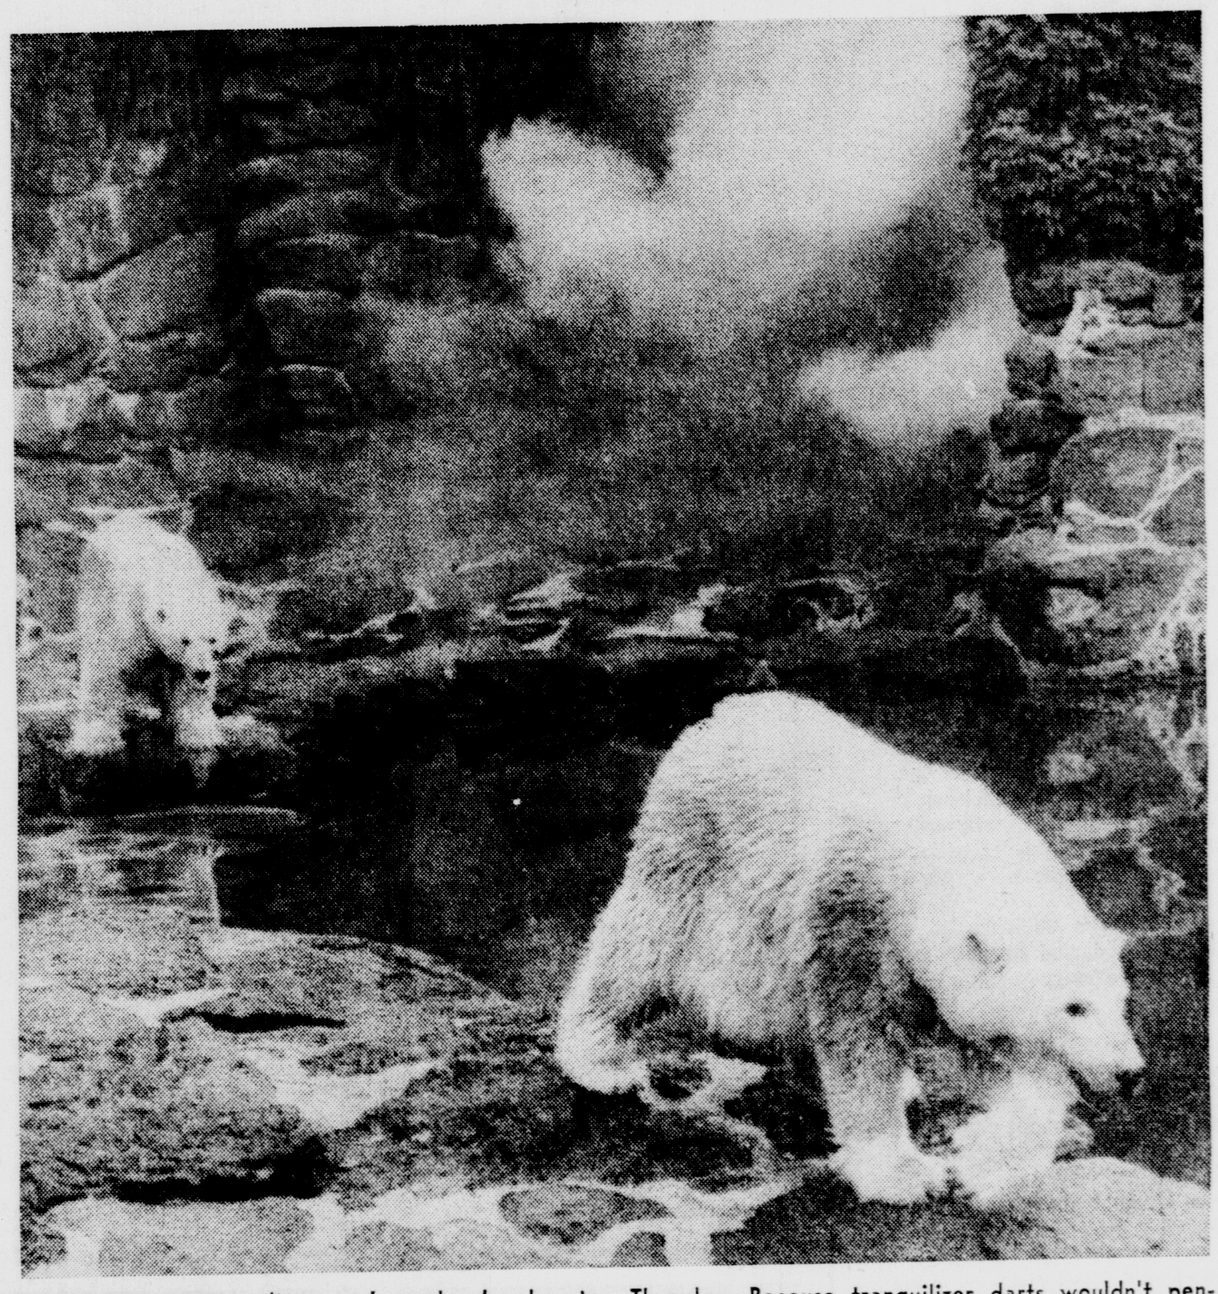
"He seemed satisfied his message had gotten across," Skidmore said.

Leach originally had taken 10 hostages, but two later were released and another escaped. Authorities earlier said 13 hostages were taken.

Police said Leach demanded a reinstatement of the GI Bill of Rights for all Vietnam veterans and "reimbursement" of all Chessie System veterans who had been "cheated" out of the bill while working for the railroad.

Skidmore said the hostages were "initially shaken up but they settled down and came through this with great courage."

"Ashby believes the company broke its promise by not rehiring him after he left to finish his schooling under the GI Bill," Leach's wife, Linda, said in Huntington. "He believes he is doing it for all the other Vietnam veterans who could not find jobs when they returned to the country."



BALTIMORE CITY police used smoke bombs to keep polar bears away from body of a man found in the bears' den. The bears apparently killed the man when he jumped or fell into their cage early Thursday. Because tranquilizer darts wouldn't penetrate the bears' thick hide, the smoke bombs were used to keep the bears from the body while it was retrieved with grappling hooks.

Thousands flee indiscriminate Zulu killings

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Zulu warriors rampaged through the streets of Soweto for the third day Thursday, stabbing black rivals and sending thousands fleeing their path shouting "The Zulus are coming! The Zulus are coming!"

Witnesses said the sprawling suburb of one million blacks 15 miles south of Johannesburg had fallen into anarchy with an orgy of indiscriminate killing by enraged Zulus of antigovernment black militants.

Police Brig. David Kriel said 31 blacks had been killed in the week's violence, 21 of them hacked to death in the clashes between Zulus and black militants trying to force a work boycott by blacks. The other ten were killed by police bullets.

The figure brought to 281 the number killed in nearly 10 weeks of antigovernment rioting which started in Soweto and later spread to segregated black enclaves in all four South African provinces.

Black witnesses told newsmen bleeding victims lay sprawled on sidewalks. Families were separated as they grabbed what belongings they could and fled before marauding gangs.

Crying children screamed out for their mothers as crowds fled towards police stations for protection, yelling "The Zulus are coming! The Zulus are coming!"

The Zulus, armed with assegais spears, clubs and long knives, charged out of hostels beating up anyone in their path.

The gangs tore down doors, stabbed fellow blacks, smashed up cars and stampeded thousands of frightened blacks who huddled around police stations. Scores of schools emptied as the Zulus charged through the dusty streets.

Officials at Baragwanath hospital, the largest with a capacity for more than 2,000 patients, reported it could take no more casualties.

The Zulus, traditionally the fiercest tribe in South Africa and the most numerous among Soweto's million inhabitants, began their three-day rampage when black militants threatened to burn down the homes of blacks who ignored the work boycott call and showed up at their jobs.

White companies reported Thursday the strike was virtually over with most of Sowetos 250,000 workers commuting to jobs in Johannesburg.

The Star newspaper said sections of the township were engulfed in anarchy and quoted its black reporters as saying they overheard black policemen telling Zulus in hostels to eat and drink well so they could "kill on full stomachs."

Susan Murphy, pal nabbed in Portland

Federal fugitives Susan Murphy and Diane Ellis were arrested Thursday in Portland, Ore., the FBI announced. The two women escaped from a federal corrections facility at Terminal Island, Calif., Aug. 14. Miss Murphy, former roommate of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, had been sentenced to five years in prison for mailing threatening letters to business leaders whom she said had despoiled the environment. Miss Fromme was comvicted of attempting to assassinate President Ford during his visit to Sacramento, Calif., earlier this year.

Chowchilla kidnap arraignments delayed

Three young men accused of kidnaping a Chowchilla school bus driver and 26 children made a brief appearance in court Thursday while their arraignment was continued to Sept. 22. Bail was continued at $1 million each. Judge Jack L. Hammerberg postponed the arraignment at the request of defense attorneys who said they wanted to study the grand jury indictments handed down against the three Wednesday. The suspects, Fred N. Woods, 24; James Schoenfeld, 24, and his brother, Richard, 2, sat quitely during the 15-minute proceedings and displayed no emotion. They were flanked by plainclothes deputies.

Indians want Cape Cod area returned

The Mashpee Wampanoag Indian Tribe filed a suit in U.S. District Court in Boston Thursday seeking the return of 20 square miles of their original homeland in the Cape Cod communities of Mashpee and Sandwich. "As natives of the Mashpee Tribe we have occupied the land of Mashpee since long before the first Europeans arrived in New England, derived our sustenance from its waters, woodlands and marshes, and governed this land as sovereign people," tribe members said in a resolution filed with the suit. The suit was filed on behalf of the tribe by the Native American Rights Fund, a national organization providing legal assistance to Indians.

Prince Bernhard stripped of public office

Prince Bernhard was stripped of all public offices and agreed to stop all business activities Thursday in The Netherlands after officials investigating a Lockheed bribery scandal found he had acted dishonorably and showed himself "susceptible to favors." However, Dutch Prime Minister Joop den Uyl told parliament that no legal action would be taken against the 65-year-old husband of Queen Juliana because of possible "serious consequences" for the Queen. Den Uyl, reporting before parliament and on national television on the results of a six-month investigation into charges that the prince consort accepted a $1.1 million payoff from the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., said Bernhard accepted "the dissapproval" of him expressed in the report and expressed his own "deep regret."

Under the 1953 security arrangements, the United States and North Korea may station up to 35 guards with sidearms in the truce village, and they usually roam freely.

Ford ordered HEW to rescind ruling

Father-son school activity OK: Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Thursday voted 88-0 to exempt father-son and mother-daughter school activities from federal sex discrimination laws.

The unanimous vote followed debate in which Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., praised federal efforts against sex discrimination but called recent rulings against traditional all-male or all-female school social activities "the most idiotic I have ever heard of."

The provision approved Thursday is an amendment to a pending six-year, $35.3 billion education and vocational assistance authorization bill.

It applies to sex discrimination rulings issued by the Health, Education and Welfare Department and follows controversial HEW bans against father-son functions and all-boy chorale groups in schools.

President Ford recently ordered HEW to rescind its ruling that father-son and mother-daughter functions were sexually discriminatory.

The overall Senate bill, once passed, would have to go to the House for action.

The sexual discrimination exemptions states that traditional father-son and mother-daughter school functions are permissable so long as the school offers "opportunities for reasonably comparable activities . . . for students of the other sex."

The amendment, offered by Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., also exempts American Legion youth organizations — including Boys State, Boys Nation, Girls State and Girls Nation — from sex discrimination laws.

The Fannin amendment was adopted after the Senate rejected, 47 to 43, a competing version offered by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., which would simply have exempted father-son and mother-daughter activites without mentioning any specific organizations.

Bayh opposed the Fannin amendment, saying, "If we continue on this route, there is a list of organizations we could include as long as my arm."

U.S. women mark 'Equality Day'

by United Press International

American women's groups paraded in the streets, gathered at rallies and luncheon meetings, and pledged efforts for a greater voice in political and economic life Thursday in observance of "Equality Day."

It was the 56th anniversary of the day women got the vote in the United States. Many women's organizations in their observances sought funds to further the cause of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

Members of the National Organization for Women in Cleveland paraded on Euclid Avenue, a main street, behind a horse-drawn carriage bearing Josephine Irwin, Fairview Park, Ohio, who marched over the same route in 1914 in a parade advocating female equality.

In Boston, Betty Friedan said the women's movement is built into American society and must move away from symbolic marches into "hard political action to change institutions." She spoke at a ceremony opening the Massachusetts observation of Equality Day. Feminist leaders did, however, plan a march in Boston, and a rally.

The proceedings there included the "unbanishment" of Anne Hutchinson, who in 1638 was banished from the Massachusetts Bay colony and later Rhode Island because of allegedly heretical religious teachings.

Bella Abzug, New York member of Congress, centered on the political theme in a statement for United Press International. She said that after a half century women finally are holding elected office "but we are still woefully represented in Washington. There are only 19 women in the 435-member House of Representatives and not a single woman among 100 U.S. senators. More and more women — and men — recognize this as an inherent weakness in a Democratic society.

President Ford issued an Equality Day eve statement, urging states which have not ratified the ERA to "give serious consideration to its ratification and the upholding of our nation's heritage."

"I've been in a career slump for seven straight years, but I think I see a clearance in the woods," he said prior to a county fair appearance in Murfreesboro, Tenn., "but I desperately need a hit record or maybe star in a movie." Tiny Tim stroked his golden wedding band and said he would never divorce his wife, who is now a go-go dancer at Minnie's Lounge in Camden, N.J. "I don't believe in divorce," he said. "Ill always be marired to Miss Vicki. She wants a divorce but I'm not going to give it to her."

Shooting 'suspect' files $1 million suit

A Chicago man, who spent almost a year in jail on apparently false charges that he shot and wounded a Chicago policeman, filed a $1 million damage suit Thursday against the city police chief and other law enforcement officials. James Dixon, 23, was arrested Aug. 2, 1975, and charged with shooting Sgt. Richard A. Scanlon, one of several policemen called to Dixon's home because of a quarrel.

Officials now believe Scanlon was carrying an illegal "pen gun" which discharged accidentally at the scene. Dixon filed suit in U.S. District, naming as defendants Chicago Police Supt. James M. Rochford, city homicide commander Joseph DiLeonardi and other police officials who investigated the shooting.

The suit charges that Scanlon withheld evidence, committed perjury and obstructed justice by falsely accusing Dixon. It said Rochford and the other defendants violated Dixon's constitutional rights to a fair trial. Shortly after Dixon pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to one year in jail as part of a plea bargaining agreement, an anonymous source told authorities Dixon was innocent. The source said Scanlon accidentally shot himself with a pen gun carried in his shirt pocket.

9 indicted in jail escape

A Cook County grand jury Thursday indicted a county jail guard, a former jail clerk and seven inmates on charges ranging from aiding escapes to theft and sexual assaults on other inmates. The jail guard, Hector Escobar, 39, was named in a 12-count indictment which charged him with aiding prisoners to escape. He allegedly unlocked a gate between the jail and an administrative building to allow three inmates to escape May 6.

One of the inmates, John Camp, who was later recaptured in California, told police he paid $2,000 to one guard and left another $3,000 in an envelope for another guard to open the way for his escape. Also indicted on two counts of misconduct and one charge of theft last year of $140 from the inmates' trust fund was Paulette Eason, 33, a clerk at the jail at the time.

No Cody endorsement

Cardinal John Cody said Thursday he will not tell Catholics how to vote in the general election, even though he opposes abortion and the Democratic Party's platform provision against a constitutional amendment to ban abortions. Cody, the archbishop of Chicago, said in a statement that he was "obliged to speak out on moral and ethical issues that often are at the heart of political positions." But, he said, "I have never urged people to vote for or aainst a particular candiate or party."

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, himself a Catholic and an important figure in the Democratic party, denied he and Cody disagreed on the abortion issue. Daley told a news conference, "I am against abortion and will stay against it."

Walker mulls special session

Gov. Daniel Walker said in Chicago Thursday he still may call a special session of the legislature to deal with the state school aid package. Under Illinois law, both the governor and legislative leaders have power to call the General Assembly into session.

"It would be real good if the legislative leaders would do this," Walker said. "But I'm not closing the door to calling it myself. I think it's important that this be resolved." The legislature is not scheduled to be in session again until after the Nov. 2 elections, and various politicians have suggested an earlier return is needed so the lawmakers can decide what to do about Walker's school aid cuts.

Illinois briefs

Walker aides paid by other units: audit

At least 43 of Gov. Daniel Walker's employes have been on the payrolls of other state agencies, said Illinois Auditor General Robert Cronson. Cronson's audit, covering two years ending June 30, 1975, confirms widespread reports that Walker — denied money to run four pet agencies — simply scattered his employes throughout state government to keep the agencies alive.

Cronson said one worker who really did Walker's bidding was paid by the Dept. of Finance and 42 others who answered directly to the governor were nonetheless on the Dept. of Transportation payroll. Cronson noted many of these workers are no longer with the state. The flap arose several years ago when the legislature, angry at Walker for "politicizing" four agencies directly under his control, refused funding for them.

Walker then kept the agencies going by putting workers on other executive department payrolls. Cronson at the time ruled Walker's move, though against the legislature's wishes, was legal because the agencies themselves were not abolished. In his compliance audit on the governor's office, Cronson said procedures should be reviewed "to ensure its personnal are paid from the proper payroll." The governor, Cronson said, has agreed to look at its policy "without conceding its personnel are not being paid from the proper payroll."

3 bills on chemical control signed

Three bills to regulate hazardous materials in Illinois were signed into law Thursday by Gov. Daniel Walker. One law requires warning signs or placards on any container used to transport, store or manufacture dangerous substances. The other two direct the state Dept. of Transportation to study highway transport of hazardous substances and the Illinois Commerce Commission to study their transport by rail These studies are to be submitted to the General Assembly by April 1, 1977, but Walker ordered agencies involved to give him an interim report by Dec. 1 this year so he can prepare legislation.

Teachers strike in 3 districts

Ilinois teachers strikes kept school children home in three Downstate districts Thursday but in Springfield, parents and substitutes stood in for striking teachers and schools did not close. As the Springfield strike entered its second day, representatives for the school board and Springfield Education Assn. met for more than an hour in the chambers of Sangamon County Circuit Court Judge Paul Verticchio. Verticchio is to rule on the school board's request Wednesday for an injunction against the strike. Both the school board and the SEA scheduled evening sessions.

Strikes in three other downstate districts kept some 5,400 school children away from the books in Carbondale, Harrisburg and Vandalia.

Tully defends plan to change assessments

by WANDALYN RICE

Cook County Assessor Thomas Tully said Thursday suburban school officials are wrong when they say they will lose money because of his proposal to change assessment rates on single-family homes.

"When school district officials say they are going to lose $800,000 because of this proposal, there is no basis in fact for that," Tully said at a press briefing. "This will not cut the tax base."

Tully has asked the county board to cut the rate at which single-family homes are assessed from 22 per cent to 16 per cent of market value, to begin with the townships which are being reassessed this year.

Wheeling and Palatine townships would be immediately affected with other Northwest suburban townships coming under the new assessment rate as they are reassessed over the next four years.

TULLY'S PROPOSAL will be considered by the county board during a public hearing Sept. 9. Local school officials are preparing to testify against the proposal on the grounds it would cost the schools money by cutting the amount of increase in school districts' assessed value.

Tully said the school officials are mistaken in the belief the proposal will cost them money, because even if the assessment rate drops, the assessed value of nearly all affected homes will increase because of increases in real estate values.

He said this year's reassessment will be the first to fully depend on the market value of homes. As a result, he said, assessed values of many homes will increase dramatically.

"Prices have been inflating at a rate of one per cent a month but on some areas the market value of homes has gone up by as much as 30 per cent a year," Tully said.

TULLY SAID lowering the assessment rate to 16 per cent "does not mean the lowering of any assessments in Cook County. There will be an increase and in some cases a considerable increase in individual tax assessments."

Tully cited as an example a Mount Prospect three-bedroom ranch-style house which sold last October for $71,000: With its old assessment, owners of the house paid $1,049 in taxes. If the house is properly reassessed at 22 per cent of market value and tax rates ntay the same, the bill will go up to $1,936. Resassessment at 16 per cent of market value will result in a tax bill of $1,408.

First-graders play hospital to calm medical stay fear

by KURT BAER

Even at age 6, a kid is old enough to know that a trip to the hospital is not going to be much fun.

To take some of the fear out of the experience, Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights is starting a pediatrics orientation program for first graders.

Children watch while one of their classmates is led through all the steps of entering the hospital for a make-believe tonsillectomy.

Admitting, lab tests, X-ray, getting into bed, a hospital dinner, shots, anesthesia, surgery, recovery and going home are acted out by the children and hospital nurses who explain each procedure.

"AFTER YOUR father leaves and it's dark in the hospital, are you all alone?" a nurse asks. "No you're not. There are nurses who sleep all day and stay up all night to take care of the children. If you want to talk to the nurse, just press the button next to your bed."

The hour-long demonstration will be presented once a week to first-grade classes in Northwest suburbs starting Sept. 16.

The program is sponsored by the Northwest Community Hospital Foundation.

Each child receives a diploma from the class, some booklets that describe the hospital and a wish that if the next trip to the hospital is for real, fear will not be such a big part of the visit.

$13.4 million budget OKd in Dist. 25

A $13.4 million budget for the 1976-77 school year was approved by the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education Thursday.

The budget reflects a .77 per cent increase from last year's $13.3 million budget and includes budget cuts totaling $900,000 approved by the board in March.

The district projects revenue from property taxes, state aid and other sources to be $7.8 million. The district also received $3.8 million last year from early tax returns for 1976 which will be applied to this year's budget.

TAX ANTICIPATION warrants, a method of borrowing money, also will be issued by the district this year. The district plans to issue $1.8 million in tax anticipation warrants, a 76 per cent increase from last year's issuance of $1 million.

An additional $468,136 will be borrowed from the working cash fund for the building fund for the 1976-77 school year. The district anticipates having $611,612 in the working cash fund, which can be used for loans to the building or education fund.

The education fund shows a 0.94 per cent decrease in expenditures from last year's $10.4 million to this year's $10.3 million budget. The education fund budget includes $280,000 for heating and electric bills, a 26 per cent increase, although the major salary items — teachers and administration — show a drop in expenditures.

Teachers' salaries are estimated at $5.8 million compared to last year's $5.9 million, a 1.69 per cent decrease. Administrators' salaries dropped by 22 per cent, from $237,000 last year to $185,000 in the 1976-77 budget.

THE BUDGET also includes:

- Building fund, $845,000, a 5.8 per cent decrease from last year's $896,700.
- Bond and interest fund, $1.56 million compared to last year's $1.3 million.
- Transportation fund, $414,900 compared to last year's $395,000.
- Retirement fund, $235,000 compared to $277,925 last year.

The board also approved a $9.3 million 1976 tax levy for four major budget funds. The education fund levy was set at $7 million, the building fund at $1.9 million, the transportation fund at $300,000 and the retirement fund at $100,000.

The tax rate for 1976 is estimated to be about $3.1 per $100 assessed valuation, up from the 1975 tax rate of $2.67. The increase reflects the approval by voters of a 52-cent-per-$100-assessed valuation tax increase last spring for the education fund.

The district also set a levy of $117,000 for life-safety improvements in the schools. Life-safety improvements are mandated by the state to bring school buildings within specific building requirements.

DANGER OF MAIL ORDER PRESCRIPTIONS

Often, over the years, the danger of mail order prescriptions has been cited in many medical journals. Here is one example:

"The dangers of mail order prescriptions include delays encountered in obtaining the medication, the absence of the physician-pharmacist relationship, the difficulties of checking the prescription files for strength and dosage, and the possibilities that prescriptions will be filled by non-professional personnel. All physicians should cooperate by keeping their patients informed relative to the dangers of these schemes." (End of Quote)

THE MARTIANS have Jayson Joerger and Paul Ernst outnumbered. The club represented North Cook County in the competition. Martians were portrayed by Pauline Perez, Chris Foster and Christine Nemcik.

Police put names 'right up front'

Arlington Heights policemen have been issued tags as part of their regulation uniforms.

Acting Police Chief Paul Buckholz said the tags are a "combination public relations move and communications-maker."

"People would like to know who they are talking to," Buckholz said. "We have always had the numbers on the stars, but numbers are hard to read and remember."

"It's my personal feeling that if the men have pride in their work, they will want their name right up front," he said.

Men not wearing the new name tags will be considered out of uniform, he said.

One patrolman said he liked the idea of the name tags, but said there was no citizen reaction the first day they were worn.

"It seems like when we didn't have them, everybody asked where they were. Now that we have them, nobody says a thing," the patrolman said.

$12 million budget OKd by Dist. 21

A $12.8 million budget for the 1976-77 school year was adopted Thursday night by the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education.

The budget reflects a 4.6 per cent decrease in expenditures from last year's $13.4 million budget.

The budget projects $12,764,564 in expenditures while the district expects to receive $12,280,230 in revenue. Although expenditures exceed revenues, a cash balance from the previous budget will cover the difference, said Jim Gochis, business manager.

CASH BALANCE available at the end of 1975-76 school year increased $414,144 from the tentative budget estimate of $560,000, to $974,144.

The increase was due to the twelfth payment of $370,000 in state aid received in June plus a more than $43,000 saving in expenditures because of cutbacks during 1975-76, Gochis said.

State-aid revenue for Dist. 21 is listed as $4.84 million, about $437,000 more than the $4.37 million originally projected in the tentative budget.

The budget also reflects about $1 million in cuts made by the board in March. The cuts include the elimination of 50 teaching positions and reduction in administration costs and in materials and supplies.

THE EDUCATION fund calls for $9.5 million in expenditures, a drop of about 10 per cent from last year's $10.5 million. Revenue in the education fund is expected to be $9.35 million.

The operation, building and maintenance fund increased by 9.5 per cent with $1,076,246 budgeted as compared with $983,032 last year.

The budget also includes;

- Transportation fund, a 39.5 per cent increase with $539,150 budgeted cMpared with $386,575 last year.
- Bond and interest fund, $1.4 mil- compared with $386,575 last year.
- Retirement fund, $165,000 compared with $200,000 last year.
- Rent fund for $139,000, the same amount as last week.

An Oct. 9 referendum on a tax crease was cancelled this week after officials learned that increased state aid would leave the district with surplus funds.

2 from suburbs meeting with Ford to map strategy

by STEVE BROWN

Top Republican fund-raisers from across the nation, including two Northwest suburban men, will meet today with President Gerald R. Ford in Vail, Colo., to map campaign strategy.

William J. Heffernan of Arlington Heights and Harold B. Smith Jr. of Barrington will join other key GOP fund-raisers to discuss plans with Ford.

Heffernan is the executive director of the finance committee of the Illinois Republican Party and Smith serves as the chairman of the finance group.

"WE RECEIVED telegrams from the President on Tuesday to meet with him in Vail," said Heffernan before flying Thursday to Ford's Rocky Mountain retreat.

Heffernan said he and Smith also hope to confirm several presidential appearances in Illinois before the November election.

"We have tentative dates for the trips now and we hope we will be able to say more when we return," he said.

The 30-member group also will finalize plans for a nationwide fund-raising dinner Oct. 7.

THE $1,000-A-PLATE dinner will feature closed-circuit television speeches by Ford, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, U.S. Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., the GOP vice presidential nominee, and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Rockefeller and Dole are scheduled to deliver the speeches at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. The President will speak in New York and Reagan in Los Angeles. The speeches will be televised between those three cities and to other gatherings in St. Louis, Dallas, San Francisco and other major U.S. cities.

The effort will be part of plans by the Republican National Committee to raise $3.3 million for the presidential campaign to supplement $20 million in federal funds that will be given to Ford and Deocratic Presidential nominee Jimmy Carter.

"We will also try to give the President and his staff an assessment of his campaign in Illinois," Heffernan said. He added that he and Smith will be returning tonight.

Two more seek AIP nomination for President

by United Press International

A one-time New York City judge and a former Democratic congressman from Louisiana announced in Chicago Thursday they will seek the American Independent Party's presidential nomination.

Robert Morris, 60, of Dallas, and former Rep. John Rarick, 52, of Slidell, La., entered the race againt former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, who announced his candidacy Monday in Washington.

Morris and Rarick both showed up on opening day of the AIP's three-day national convention, where party workers have established tentative planks to abolish the federal income tax on individuals and oppose ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

MORRIS, WHO said he was a judge in New York City's municipal court in the 1960s, said his running mate will be Virginia merchandiser Richard Viguerie, who publishes the Conservative Digest and is best known for raising $7 million for Alabama Gov. George Wallace's past campaigns.

Morris is author of a weekly newspaper column. He said he has served as president of the University of Dallas and the University of Plano.

Rarick served eight years in Congress before losing in the 1964 Louisiana Democratic primary. He is running for Congress as an independent this year.

The AIP, hoping to lure votes away from both President Ford and Jimmy Carter, will choose its candidate Friday.

The AIP's 40-member platform committee approved drafts opposing the ERA, federal income taxes for individuals and blanket amnesty for draft dodgers or military desserters.

The proposed patform, which will be submitted to the full convention Friday, also calls for the government to "cease its acts of hostility toward South Africa and Rhodesia."

'Miracle worker' gives God credit

Today

Mike Klein's people

ANNA — Louie Smith lives on West Vienna Street in this rural southern Illinois community where some persons rejoice that a born-again Christian is one party's candidate for President of the United States.

Louie's house is white. He sometimes rests outside on the swing that hangs over his front porch. In all, Louie's house is rather inconspicuous.

He might have chosen to be more obvious. But no signs proclaim, "See the Image of Jesus Christ" or "Meet Louie Smith, the Lord's Miracle Worker."

His visitors do not find souvenir stands, large parking lots, neon lights or road signs that point the way. No young children with pails ask that you donate a few coins to religion and save your soul.

THERE IS just this white house where 75-year-old Louie, an ex-farmer and state hospital worker, lives with his wife, Susie, and a few plants.

Louis sat inside his house one exceedingly hot afternoon this week and talked about the miracles.

"I've seen miracles performed," Louie said. "I've seen five blind people get their sight and I'll tell you, I can't do nothing about it. He does it all."

Some people say that Louie Smith can work miracles in the name of Jesus Christ.

"I claim the power of the Holy Ghost. I guess that's what you want to know," Louie said. "But I credit the Lord for everything. I take no credit for nothing."

Louie always has been a religious man and one of little formal education. His reputation as a miracle worker began six years ago.

LOUIE PURCHASED ordinary mahogany paneling for his living room in February 1970. The first of what he interprets as two facial "images" of Jesus Christ began to appear on that paneling four months later.

"Picture came on the wall the 28th day of June in 1970," Louie said. "About half the face showed at first. Three days later, the whole face showed. Everyday, He gets plainer. We've got people who come regular and see it."

A smaller, somewhat better detailed and scaringly realistic facial "image" of Christ began to emerge three years later. There are two less distinct forms.

Louie says those two forms are of Christ's disciples. He points at three lines and says they are the start of Jesus Christ's Last Supper table.

It is Louie's theory that when that table is fully emerged, and all 12 disciples are seated around Jesus Christ, the world will experience The Second Coming.

Someone must believe Louie. More than 40,000 persons from around the world have visited Louie Smith's small white house during the past six years. He keeps their signatures in registration books.

SOME VISITORS want to see the Christ facial "images." Others come because they need the Lord's healing powers. So they ask to see Louie Smith. They have heard that he works miracles.

Louis said there was a deaf man from Montana whose hearing was restored, a blind boy whose sight was returned and a woman with a crippled leg which straightened after prayers.

There was the critically ill baby who appeared to be completely recovered just three hours after the infant's father placed a desperation telephone call to Louie Smith.

Louie's stories are incredible, and they would be seemingly unbelievable to most people today. But not to Jesse J. Harper, 64, of Collinsville.

Harper became ill with cancer four years ago. The disease attacked his bone marrow. There were problems with his blood. Today, Jesse Harper is completely recovered from that cancer.

DID LOUIE SMITH cause Jesse Harper's recoveries? Was it just medical luck? Are these miracles?

"I would not say that he (Louie Smith) can work the miracle, but he can be responsible for the miracle," Jesse Harper said during a telephone interview. "He had a part in communicating with our Master in my behalf."

Louie Smith rarely moved from his living room chair during our lengthy discussion one hot afternoon this week. The Holy Bible rested on his lap. Louie referred to it constantly, citing one passage and then another.

It seemed logical to wonder why the Lord might have chosen him. "God saw it was necessary to have someone to administer to man," Louie said. "God knowed I was an unlearned man who'd do his best."

LOUIE COULD talk for hours about his meetings with Jesus Christ. "The Saviour, I know him personally. He speaks with me daily," Louie said.

Louie makes just one request, that no man attempt to photograph the two Jesus Christ facial "images" that very clearly exist in some form on his living room wall.

"They sold my Saviour one time for 30 pieces of silver," Louie said. "They could photograph this and sell it for 10 cents a copy. They could make a million dollars. I don't ever want Him sold again."

Dist. 21's action 'wise'

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education acted responsibly and in the best interest of the community by canceling a tax rate increase referendum initially set for October.

The Dist. 21 board this week, after reviewing updated figures on the district's financial status, called off the referendum which would have asked for a 30-cent per $100 equalized assessed valuation increase in property taxes.

Earlier this summer, when the referendum was scheduled, the district projected a deficit of more than $65,000 for the 1976-77 school year. New figures from the Illinois Office of Education on Dist. 21's state aid allotment for next year put the district in a position of projecting a cash balance by June of 1977.

Supt. Kenneth Gill told the board, "People shouldn't have to vote on a tax increase unless it is absolutely necessary." We agree.

Residents in Dist. 21 last spring watched their school board slash about $1 million from the budget to ward off a snowballing deficit. The cuts meant fewer administrators, teachers and materials this school year.

No sooner had the dust settled from the cutbacks when a citizens's committee was formed to study the district's fiscal future. The committee recommended a referendum which the board subsequently approved.

The action canceling the vote shows a true commitment to the people of the community to run the district in a responsible manner.

While some may be critical of the on-again, off-again decision, the fault lies not with the district officials, but with elected state officials who can't seem to make up their minds how much aid schools are to receive until months after budgets are drawn up and financial commitments made.

The district's money picture can still change at the whim of the legislature. If the legislature does not fund a provision in the state aid formula bill — which ensures that no school district will get less state aid this year because of changes made in the formula — Dist. 21 could lose about $300,000.

The vote in the legislature, however, won't come until November — two months after school is in session and four months into the district's fiscal year.

Dist. 21 has handled the referendum question well considering the changing information they have to cope with.

Tree problem called 'delightful'

Buffalo Grove has a delightful problem.

Some trees in the village have grown to the point where they can create hazards if not trimmed properly.

What makes the problem a pleasant one, is that Buffalo Grove is composed mostly of spanking new neighborhoods. The trees, planted three, four or five years ago — sometimes mere twigs dropped by the dozens into mechanically drilled holes — have begun to grow up.

In some neighborhoods this summer, trees in front yards have begun to droop over sidewalks, blocking views and knocking caps off the unwary pedestrian.

The village is considering a law requiring that privately owned trees overhanging sidewalks be trimmed to a height of eight feet.

Eight feet! A soaring height for a Buffalo Grove tree only a few years ago, and now some branches droop that low.

The ordinance has a serious purpose and obviously will promote the health and safety of citizens. But it's also a reminder of the growing maturity of one of our newer suburban communities.

Radioactive dump a killer

TOM TIEDE

RINGOS MILL, Ky. — (NEA) — Oscar Hurst's cows are dying. First they lose energy and sexual interest; then they begin to grind their teeth and paw at the ground as if in pain; finally, patches of their hair bleach out, grow rapidly and shed away. "And they just die," says Hurst, "one day they just keel over and go."

Oscar Hurst is a dairyman who works 30 head of cattle on a scrubby stretch of bottom land here in the hills of northeastern Kentucky. Ordinarily his bovine problems are a matter of interest only to him and his veterinarian, but not this time. Hurst's farm is located down valley from the world's largest private nuclear materials dump, a dump that has been known to leak radiation, and Hurst fears his cows may be the victims of alpha ray poisoning.

"I don't know it for a fact," Hurst says, while walking among his unhealthy animals, "I don't even know if it's possible. Alls I know is my cows are dropping dead on me. Now you look at that old girl over there. See that white hair? It's an inch longer than the black. Nobody knows why. Nobody I know has ever seen anything like it. That old girl's in bad shape; a month or two more, maybe."

Hurst is not the only one in Ringos Mill with the nuclear jitters these days. Growing numbers of residents are wondering if their cattle, or their soil, or their sons and daughters are being contaminated by the omnipresent nuclear dump. Dump officers say no, and U.S. authorities agree, but people here are worried just the same.

The dump itself is not newly alarming. It was created on about 30 acres of farmland in the early 1960s, ostensibly as a final resting place for low-radiation waste (hospital equipment and other relatively harmless garbage). Then a few years ago the Environmental Protection Agency determined that the buried radiation may be "migrating," that is leaching into surrounding soil and water.

The EPA suggestion enlightened and sobered the locals. For instance they learned for the first time that the burials consisted not merely of low yield radiation, but perhaps poisons as well, plutonium, for instance. An invisible speck of plutonium can cause cancer, a pound of it in the air might kill nine billion people. Citizens here began to wonder if one day they might all wake up dead.

Staunch opposition to the dump (owned by Nuclear Engineering Co.) has existed since the EPA report, not only locally but in the Kentucky legislature. Recently the lawmakers instituted a tough 10 cent tax on every pound of nuclear waste brought into the state, a law essentially calculated to discourage continuance of the dumping at Ringos Mill.

That law may be working. Local wisdom is that dump owners can't afford the tariff and will soon have to close.

But even an end to the dumping would not eliminate the worries and suspicion here. Plutonium has a half life of 25,000 years, which means that if it is leaking it will continue to leak for hundreds of thousands of generations. So it is that Hurst and others may not in their lifetimes be entirely out of harm's way.

Understand, there is no evidence that the locals are in danger. Nuclear officers have sampled the soil, the grass, the streams, even the milk from Hurst's cows, apparently with no alarm. Yet apprehension grows. Cancer? Birth deformities? Slow deaths? "The government keeps telling us not to worry," says Hurst's neighbor John P. Hay, "but we worry. What we worry about is the unknown."

The unknown, like Hurst's dying cows. One veterinarian says the cause is a copper deficiency, another says he just doesn't know the reason. Hurst, who has lived on this small farm all of his life, says the sickness is the damnest thing he's ever seen.

"I feed 'em good. I add all the vitamins and minerals they're supposed to get. And yet looka here at this cow; it's not yet two years old and already it's hair is turning white. I don't know what it is. I hate to think what it is. But this cow's gonna die."

Mixed reaction to Teichert position on vandalism laws

Mayor Teichert's letter to the editor is a shocking example of how modern thinking on vandalism has regressed to the point of complete abdication of parental responsibility. It is the perfect example of trying to explain the increasing amount of vandalism by finding some other scapegoat instead of looking in the mirror. The opinions expressed by the highest official of our community are the leading causes of vandalism. I, too, regret the demise of the old-fashioned teacher, the old-fashioned policeman and the old-fashioned judge, but these individuals are not now, and never have been responsible for instilling a sense of decency and honesty in our children. That has always started in the home.

Our society is in the first instance based on the family as a governing body. Bringing a child into this world brings along with it the most awesome task of making this individual a useful member of our society. This most responsible of all jobs, has, unfortunately, been degraded in recent times as being mundane and unimportant. But the responsibility cannot be delegated to teacher, policemen, day care centers or fellow playmates. Society holds us accountable for our failures, whether it is in the manufacture of a product or the performance of a service. Failure to properly raise a child constitutes a malpractice of parenthood and could actually be construed as contributing to the delinquency of a minor. How any one parent contributed to the delinquency can only be answered by them. Perhaps it was the working wife who left the children to their own devices, the husband not giving his children enough time because of golf games, meetings or the hunt for job promotions or the divorced couple who were too immature to solve their differences. In any case, they brought the children into this world, they somehow failed in their task, they are responsible for not giving their children enough of their time, love or attention. They must reimburse property owners for damages caused by their offspring.

Granted, all of us have taken a fail-step in our youth and may or may not have been caught. But if we were caught our parents automatically assumed moral and financial responsibility. The proposed law, which has greatly reduced vandalism in other communities, is only needed for those few parents who refuse to accept their responsibility. Mayor Teichert's remedies try to deal with the symptoms and not the cause of vandalism and his use of the slogan, "There but for the grace of God, go I," shows how little faith he puts in the family as a unit and in the ability of parents to guide their young.

The law holds me responsible for any damage caused by my dog. Can anyone with any sense of responsibility expect any less for a human being who is dependent on us for care and guidance?

Frank Meyer
Mount Prospect

Reading the criticisms of Mayor Teichert's position on vandalism impels me to express my admiration for his recent letter. As he pointed out, it is absurd to punish one person for the actions of another (that's what terrorists do) and unrealistic to suppose that parents can control older children.

Parents do what they can with early training, example and negotiation. Beyond that, society has already taken away — for better or worse — virtually all the sanctions that parents once could apply.

Because Americans have enjoyed success with wise legislation on occasion, we are tempted to suppose that every problem can be solved by passing a new law. It seems obvious to me that vandalism is precisely the kind of problem that won't go away because a solemn convocation of officials voted that it should.

In fact, I predict that all of the new vandalism ordinances and curfews currently in fashion in the suburbs ultimately will be dropped because they prove to be either useless or more harmful than beneficial.

McGill story too familiar

The Aug. 10 article by Kurt Baer on Dr. Edwin M. McGill in The Herald sounds so familiar. I wonder how many people realize the trend going on toward leaving the noisy suburbs for the slower life in rural America.

I remember how nice and peaceful the suburbs used to be just 10 years ago. Maybe I've stopped changing with the times, but it seems like it's as bad as Chicago now. What with all the people and traffic, etc. It's a shame that the Northwest suburbs are getting so crowded. I feel like just overnight the population has doubled. All I see are houses and apartments going up all over. Guess that can't be helped with everybody working here toward a high "standard of living." Like they say, if you can't make it here, "hang it up." I can't see how some people can't seem to find a job. There are so many factories.

WELL, BACK TO the subject. I used to be thankful that we could afford to live in the suburbs and not in Chicago. I'm not knocking Chicago; it's a nice place to visit but I wouldn't want to live there. It's a pity some of the people stuck in the city can't afford anything better. I'm glad that we can afford a home in Wisconsin on two acres of land and have nothing but tranquility. I know it's not cheap living in the country and rural area. My husband will take a big cut in his income to support the three of us, but it's worth it. We have a lot of will power and faith.

Being a new mother with a four-month-old baby has opened up my eyes a lot, too. My hubby and I want a slower paced life for her. In a fast changing world, we want our daughter to grow up in a small town, to give her what I never had. Give her a lot of room too run around in her childhood.

I'm sorry to leave Illinois, in a way, since I've been here 16 of my 23 years. Because I really liked it here, am used to it and know my way around. Being Mexican-American, I'll miss seeing my nationality around. As you probably know, our race usually sticks around together. And I know there are not too many Texas-Mexicans in Wisconsin.

ANYWAY, I KNOW I'll have to get used to a different life, but I bet it won't be long. Jokingly, I'll miss my McDonalds and K-Marts, also Mary Hartman.

Seriously now, we would have liked to buy a house in Illinois, outside Cook County, but they're too expensive. So we're doing what a lot of people are starting to do, getting out of the once-quiet suburbs and going to the country atmosphere. Dr. McGill is certainly not alone. Also, I'll appreciate the friendly people in a small town, which I've noticed is forgotten here. I bet nobody will argue with me on that.

Thank you for taking time to read my letter. Just thought you'd be interested in reading the viewpoint of one person out of 59,288 people in Des Plaines.

Dora Brown
Des Plaines

Editor's Note: Dr. Edwin McGill is a well-known Arlington Heights obstetrician and gynecologist who recently closed his office here to get away from the mounting pressures of his suburban medical practice. He and his wife moved to the small town of Kerrville, Tex.

'For two weeks of fun, we are in dirt for 25 years,' says a playwright about the recent Olympic summer games

MONTREAL (LENS) — The mayor of Montreal, Jean Drapeau, got some rousing cheers from the Olympic crowds, but his popularity is likely to subside now that the auditors are taking over from the athletes.

The Quebec province government, led by Robert Bourassa, has ordered an official inquiry into what happened to the public funds. It will begin later this month.

In the meantime the four partners in the firm that built the Olympic village apartment blocks are due to answer 30 charges of fraud, attempted fraud and related offenses. Critics of the Olympic extravaganza will derive plenty of ammunition from both the inquiry and the court case.

"For two weeks of fun," said a well-known playwright, Michel Tremblay, "we are in dirt for 25 years." The bill for those two weeks is expected to amount to more than $1.4 billion in direct payments to contractors and employes.

That figure does not take account of hidden costs such as the $100 million spent on security, mainly by the federal government, which deployed 14,000 troops — not to mention five destroyers and air force helicopters — to guard against a possible repetition of the terrorist attack at Munich.

Bills remain to be paid. Drapeau will argue that they would have been smaller if the Trudeau government had allowed him to launch the Olympic lottery earlier than 1974 and if it had been more successful in curbing price increases.

The federal government will no doubt counter by reminding Drapeau how late and sketchy he was with budget estimates, and how far he was prepared to go to indulge his Parisian architects' fancy — for example, by constructing an $8 million fountain cascading over garages.

The Bourassa government has already made plans to wipe out its $800 million share of the deficit by extending the Canada-wide Olympic lottery for three years and by levying a special cigarette tax in Quebec for eight years. Drapeau has not said how he will raise the $200 million demanded of his city.

Some people made money out of the games. Ticket touts outside the stadium gathered a rich harvest and even virtuous stable girls at Bromont were earning $360 a week. The 250,000-odd visitors poured money into Montreal's catering and service sectors and international publicity for the city over many hours of television will help to bring in more tourists in the future.

But what can the Canadians do with the Olympic center now? The provincial government will retain control of the stadium for at least eight years but is expecting difficulties in hiring it out.

Maintenance of the 70,000-seat stadium during sports events costs some $50,000 a day. Drapeau has had the bright idea of trying to persuade the United Nations secretariat to move to Montreal from New York. But nobody is likely to think the facilities any more suitable for a diplomatic center than the Expo '67 complex on the Montreal islands was thought suitable for a world university. This was Drapeau's previous bright idea.

THINK first to cut housing woes

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

If you're looking to buy a house, or already own one, you may have been alarmed at the frequent reports of the rapid increases in the cost of keeping a roof over your head.

Common sense, and attention to certain basic quidelines, can help keep those costs at a minimum. Falling prey to your whims, indulging in unneeded luxuries or inattention to details can make your costs zoom.

• A thorough inspection of the building is a must for all would-be buyers, and a good idea for any owners who appreciate the value of preventive maintenance. Larger cities will have firms who specialize in this. In smaller cities a comptent contractor can do the job for you. The inspection should include a top-to-bottom survey, including the foundation, roof, sidewalls, plumbing and electrical systems, and all mechanical facilities and appliances. The fee you'll pay can be cheap insurance: catching a major repair job before it attacks you can save hundreds of dollars, if not thousands. Once the major inspection has been done, checkups every year or two can be done more inexpensively.

• Don't ignore those whistles, hisses, rattles, knocks and so forth, hoping that they'll go away on their own and that you'll thereby avoid a repair bill. Those sounds can often be warnings of a bigger problem. Did you ever try to mop up after a pipe or water heater has ruptured?

• Whether owner or buyer, visit your local tax assessor. Owners should do so periodically. Buyers, especially if you're new to the area, should try to determine how stable the tax base has been, and what likelihood there may be for sharp increases in either assessments or tax rates. If increases are looming in the near future, this may have a bearing on your decision to buy, or how you should pay.

• With the aid of the assessor's office, determine if your home is fairly assessed with relation to comparable nearby houses. Tax roll errors, due to either humans or machines, do exist, and if one runs against you it can cost you hundreds of dollars each year unnecessarily. No one but yourself will take steps to correct an error, and if you don't take the steps it will continue on indefinitely.

• Your local utility company or a building supply dealer can give you an energy checkup: how you might be wasting the precious stuff, and what you can do to plug the leaks. In addition, the exercise of prudence in day-to-day use of electricity and fuel can save many dollars.

• Use common sense in renovating. Don't price yourself out of the neighborhood, and be wary of over-personalized decor that could repel buyers when you put your house on the market.

Stocks plummet to 2½-month low

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, unable to sustain an early rally amid economic worries, fell to a 2½-month low Thursday as prices plunged for the sixth time in seven sessions in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, ahead more than two at the outset, lost 10.39 points to 960.44, the lowest level since it finished at 958.09 on June 9. The blue-chip average gained 7.90 Wednesday, breaking a five-session losing streak in which it lost 36.41 points.

A number of analysts said Wednesday's rally appeared to have been created more by internal factors after the sharp market slide than by any major news development.

Selling increased after Alice Rivlin, Congressional Budget Office director, predicted the Gross National product, stripped of inflation, would grow at an annual rate of between 5 and 6.5 per cent through 1977. This would be down from the 6.8 per cent originally forecast.

That forecast tended to erase enthusiasm generated by General Motors' prediction Wednesday of record 1977 sales and a pledge to spend up to $3 billion for capital expenditures.

U.S. trade deficit at two-year high

The United States last month suffered its biggest trade deficit in nearly two years, due primarily to a 20 per cent jump in oil imports, the Commerce Dept. reported Thursday. In its monthly trade report, the department said the nation imported $827.1 million more in goods than it exported in July — the biggest disparity since the $687 net outflow registered in August 1974. Both imports and exports reached record highs in July, the department said, eclipsing the previous mark set in June. Imports were up 7.5 per cent from June to a seasonally adjusted $10.85 billion, while exports rose 3.1 per cent to $10.02 billion.

Oil firm, bank ties under probe

The Federal Trade Commission said Thursday it is investigating whether oil companies and other energy suppliers got preferential treatment from banks and arranged to shut out competition. Commission officials said the inquiry was authorized Sept. 12, 1974, during the energy crisis, but not previously made public. The nine banks whose files have been subpoenaed are Chase Manhattan, The Chemical Bank of New York, Citycorp, Continental Illinois, Mellon National, J.P. Morgan, BankAmerica, First City Bankcorp of Texas, and the Security Pacific Corp. of Los Angeles.

Drop in farm goods foreseen

Richard Bell, an assistant secretary of agriculture, said Thursday he expects corn and soybean production in the United States this year to dip below department estimates issued Aug. 1. Speaking in Peoria, Bell said the Aug. 1 USDA outlook calling for 6.1 billion bushels will be missed, but he predicted that production would exceed 1975 productin of 5.7 billion bushels.

FCC drops toy ad ban plan

The Federal Trade Commission has scrapped its widely publicized plan to ban the advertising of free toys, games and other prizes in TV ads directed at children, it was learned Thursday. Instead, agency sources said, the FTC will concentrate on checking ads with premiums or other send-in-the.coupon pitches as they come up to make sure such gimmicks aren't used in an abusive way.

Bank plans economics panel

The First National Bank of Des Plaines slated an economic forum Sept. 15 at the Sheraton O'Hare Hotel, Des Plaines. The speakers will include James J. O'Leary, vice chairman of the United States Trust Co. in New York and W. Philip Gramm, professor of economics at Texas A&M University. The meeting will start at 10 a.m.

Cigaret production slowing

Global cigaret production is still growing this year, but health concerns and cost factors are holding the rate to the lowest in 14 years, the Agriculture Dept. says. A report from the agency's Foreign Agricultural Service said the pace of cigaret production growth, which has been slowing for several years, will probably decline again to about 2 per cent this year compared with 2.2 per cent in 1975 and 3 per cent in 1974. The predicted 2 per cent increase, which would lift world production to more than 3 trillion cigarets — 192.5 billion packs — would be the smallest gain since the 1.4 per cent rise in 1962.

Imports, exports council topic

How to export and import for a small business is the topic of a Sept. 14 Chicago conference slated by the U.S. Small Business Administration and the Service Corps of Retired Executives. The free session will be held at 219 S. DearbornSt. Additional information is available from the SBA office, 353-5057.

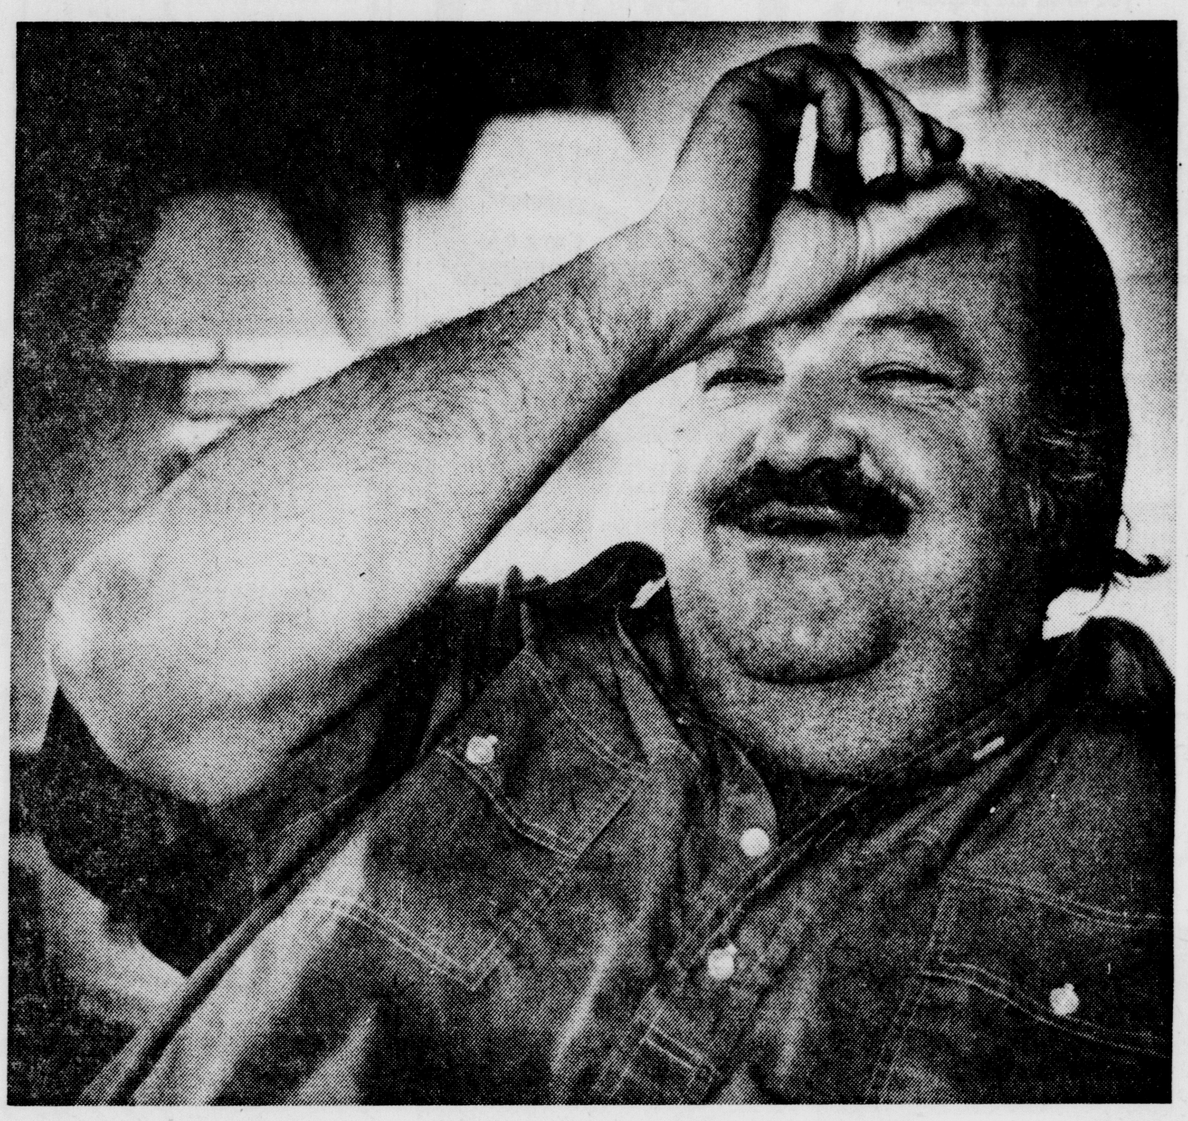
WILLIAM CONRAD'S idea of a vacation is "taking off by myself to Hawaii, renting a house and becoming a beach bum." But now it's all work for the television star who's playing in "That Championship Season" at Arlington Park Theatre. He's also appearing for fun with pianist Galen in the Top of the Towers for the late show next Tuesday through Thursday.



A different role for TV's 'Cannon'

There's little time for fishing

by GENIE CAMPBELL

It isn't that William Conrad ever regrets having accepted the role of detective Frank Cannon on network television. But at times it ruins one of his favorite sports — fishing.

Even in the remote mountain streams, someone always manages to spot him and hike over to get his autograph —— his TV identity, that is, not his real one.

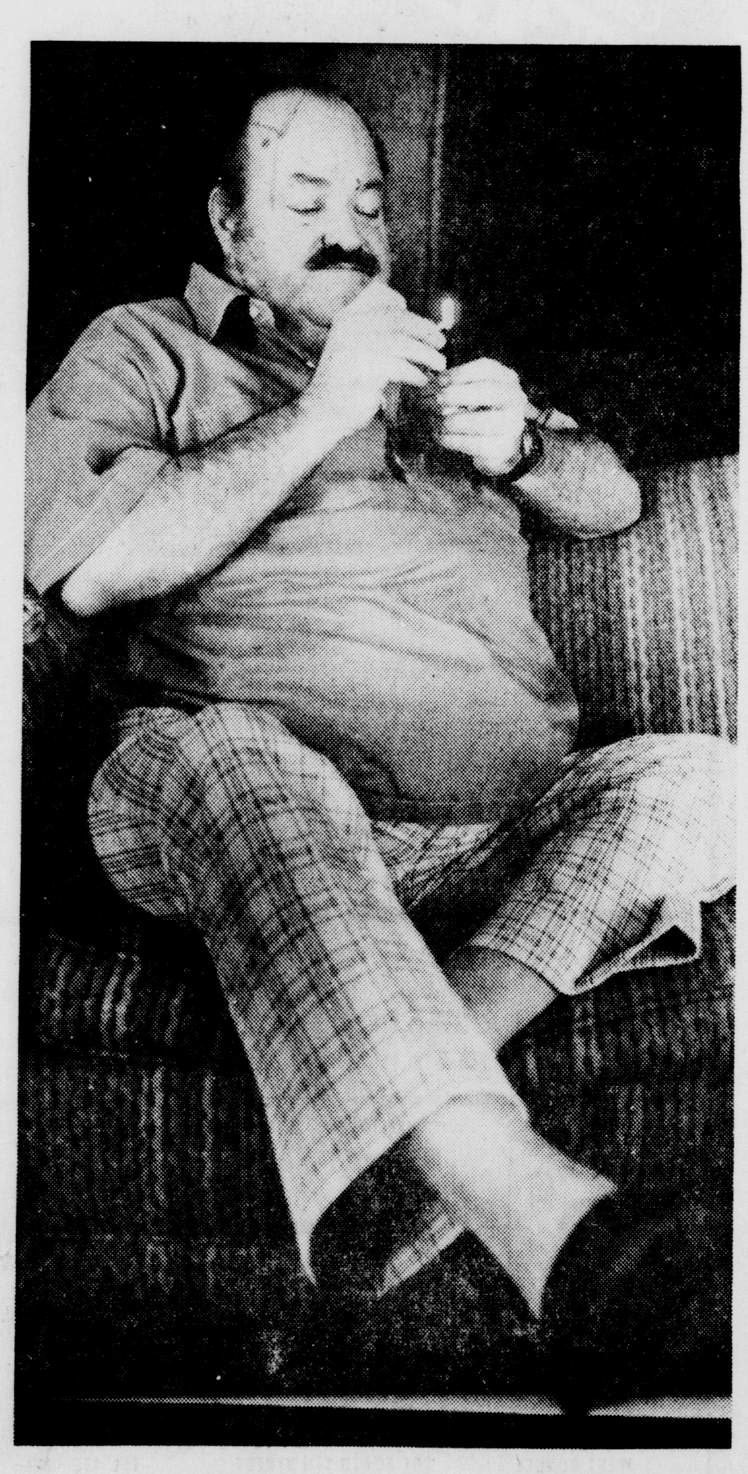
"I don't think people even know my real name. It's amazing what television does. I can't go anywhere in the world anymore."

Having the peaceful interlude of fishing interrupted is just one of the prices paid for coming from behind the scenes into the spotlight of the cameras.

NOT THAT HIS massive bulk, 265 pounds plus on a 5 feet 9½ inch frame, wouldn't be noticed anyway. But his name as a recognized executive director/producer just didn't garner the same attention as it does now being associated with Frank Cannon, a role that has continued for five years but ends this season. There is no love lost.

"I'm delighted. It had gone as far as it could anyhow," said Conrad, who could have accepted another series immediately but chose not to. It became old hat to him. For Conrad, anything that turns into a routine is drudgery.

"The only thing that appeals to me anymore is doing things I've never tried before," he said one afternoon last week in his hotel suite.



Right now something different for him includes hot air ballooning, orchestra conducting and being on stage. He is currently appearing in "That Championship Season" at Arlington Park Theatre. Even Chicago is brand new to him. He's only passed through before on his way somewhere else.

"I'd been wanting to do a play for a long time because my fellow actors kept telling me how gratifying it is. The offer came through. It hit me at the right time so I jumped in with both feet with everything to lose and nothing to gain. Who knows, I might make an ass of myself yet," said Conrad.

BUT THAT'S NOT likely, according to reviews of the show that first played in Miami for a week before opening at Arlington Park last Friday.

"It's a real back breaker. While performing it's great to hear the applause, but two hours later when I'm back here I think — what the hell am I doing here? But since I decided to do it, it couldn't have happened with a better play or with a better cast."

Whether Conrad will go on from here and accept other theater dates is hard to say. He does plan to do a musical — something else he's never had the opportunity to try. But if he fails as a singer it won't be because he can't project. That booming volume is no put-on.

For 11 years he was the voice of Matt Dillon on radio before "Gunsmoke" moved into television.

In fact Conrad was offered the pilot television role before James Arness was ever considered. But he turned it down. The money wasn't good enough.

"Even if they had offered me enough, I doubt if it would have been successful," said Conrad, who feels the American public 15 years ago wasn't ready to accept a fat cowboy.

RATHER, THEY required the stereotyped western hero — "a combination of Gary Cooper and Jimmy Stewart, tall and skinny," explained Conrad.

"But since I did the show on radio for 11 years, I know Dodge City, the setting for 'Gunsmoke,' well. I've seen pictures, and all the great gunfighters were little men. They couldn't win with their fists so they had to resort to guns."

Yes, American audiences have since grown up, Conrad feels. The stereotyping isn't as necessary. People want actors with whom they can identify.

"Casting me in 'Cannon' helped," said Conrad, who helped pave the way for other character actors, including Buddy Ebsen and Telly Savalas.

'That Championship Season' reviewed on page 4

"You know what the guy said. God must have liked the common man because he made so many of them. I'm not really common — I'm unusual. But I fit the category anyhow because I'm not pretty."

He himself has never had any trouble landing roles. "That's because I always played the heavy and the heavy was always the good part," he said. "The worst is the leading man's best friend. No one even knows you're there."

YET, THOUGH Conrad entered the business as an actor, most of his career has been spent as an executive director/producer for Warner Bros.

"I was conned into doing a guest shot that later turned into 'Cannon,' " said Conrad, who considers acting much less stressful than producing.

"Actors don't have all the responsibilities of a director or producer. Everyone pats you on the back and tells you how good you are. The biggest responsibility of an actor is waiting by the phone to see if you got the job or not."

If his appetite for acting is satiated at the moment, his urge to conduct is not . . . ever since he led the U.S. Air Force Band recently in "Stars and Stripes Forever."

"When I raised the baton in front of 125 men, I thought, either I control them or they won't pay any attention to me and damn if they're not going to pay attention to me" — which is exactly the attitude Conrad projects in "Championship Season."

Sears Bank to exhibit tapestries

Chicago area residents will have an opportunity to view a selection of rarely exhibited tapestries and charcoal drawings by Belgian artist Jan Yoors at the Sears Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, beginning Tuesday and continuing through Oct. 29.

This exhibit is only the second major showing of Yoors' work in the United States though he is internationally known as an artist and author.

The exhibition, which includes six tapestries never shown before, is the third in a series of art displays presented by the bank. The Yoors exhibit is on the mezzanine level of the bank in Sears Tower at Wacker and Adams.

ARTISTICALLY, Yoors is best known for his brilliantly colored, large-scale tapestries and bold, simplistic drawings. Many of the works to be displayed were featured last year in Ghent, Belgium, as part of that city's millenium celebration.

Yoors, the son of an artist, ran away from home at age 12 to discover what he considered to be a new reality in life with the gypsies.

After his initial contact with them, he spent the summers of his youth roaming throughout the Balkans and Western Europe with his gypsy friends, experiencing what Yoors refers to as "the challenge of constant change, the timelessness of the moment and the simply dignity of this race of strangers."

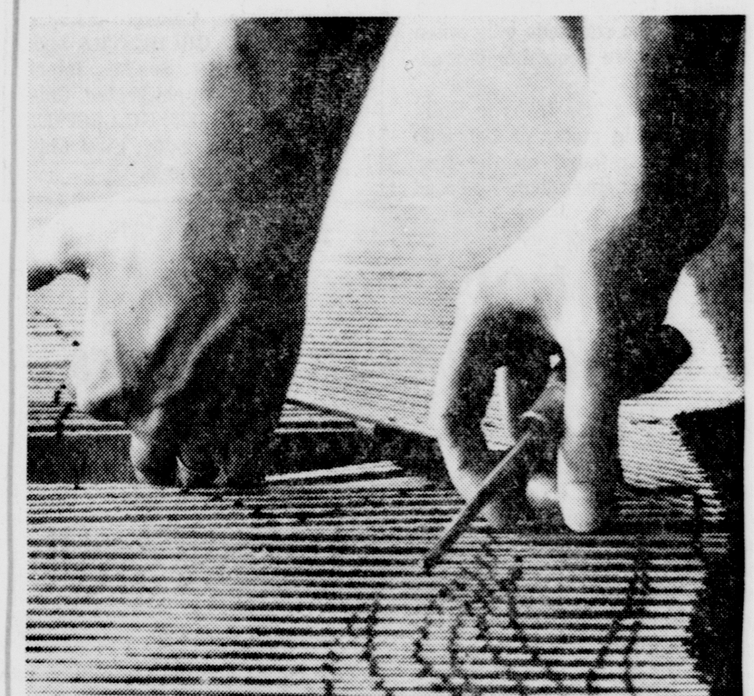
During World War II Yoors volunteered as a liaison officer between Allied intelligence and the total gypsy community. He served as an operative behind enemy lines, was hunted and captured by the Gestapo, held in solitary confinement for six months and narrowly escaped a death sentence.

After the war Yoors plunged into art with little formal preparation but with a great deal of freedom and enthusiasm. His tapestries and other artistic works are a visual translation of his heritage and unusual lifestyle.

YOORS IS ALSO a successful author and has written about his experiences in two books, the autobiographical "Crossing" and "The Gypsies," a sociological study which has been translated into five languages.

In addition he collaborated on a full-length documentary film, "Only One New York."

His exhibit is open to the public Tuesday through Oct. 29, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Friday.



A DETAIL of a design by Belgian artist Jan Yoors illustrates how pattern and color are woven into his tapestry art.

A SERIES of charcoal drawings by Jan Yoors, including the one above, will be featured in a selection of his rarely exhibited works opening Tuesday at Sears Bank, Chicago.

Members of Moody Blues now performing in solo

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

The Moody Blues, as a group, is still in performing limb, but the solo albums keep coming.

Michael Pinder's "The Promise" (threshold records) completed the first round and Ray Thomas' second solo album, "Hopes Wishes & Dreams" (also Threshold), begins the next round.

Pinder's album is a statement of his beliefs and the viewpoint is very optimistic throughout. Both the title piece and "The Seed" contain bits of mysticism, the latter also using the Indian instrument shakuhachi for an Asian sound.

Some listeners may find Pinder's approach to life a bit too corny. Still, the album's music is of a very pleasing quality — soft over-all with traces of jazz, such as the tenor sax and flute on "Someone To Believe In." There are several love songs, including "I Only Want To Love You." every way, however. It is a collection of songs with no underlying theme. The music is brighter and more uptempo, and there are nice classical touches throughout, such as the string bass on "Friends."

Thomas and guitarist Nicky James each wrote one song alone and collaborated on the rest. The album's title, which comes from a line in "In Your Song" written by James, is one of the highlights.

There is a mix of soft and rock styles, with "One Night Stand" best of the rockers.

With the many production touches and use of full string arrangements, Thomas comes close to the Moody Blues' sound several times. But it is a sound he is entitled to copy as he, with Pinder, cofounded the Moodies.

Other recent releases of interest include:

• "Another Passenger" by Carly Simon (Elektra). The first side is the best thing Simon has done in some time and the credit, in part, belongs to producers Ted Templeman, who replaced the tiresome Richard Perry, and the musical help of the Doobie Brothers.

Indeed, the Doobies' "It Keeps You Runnin'" is handled quite well by Simon, along with her own mid-tempo "Half a Chance" and the lyrically fine "Fairweather Father" and "Cow Town."

Both "Fairweather Father" and "Cow Town" have bittersweet moments and twinges of regret as Simon continues to center her songs on the pangs and anxieties of the affluent. She is one of the few songwriters who does so, and she succeeds only when she makes us care about her characters.

A soft, pleasing "He Likes to Roll" with the acoustic guitar of Laurindo Almeida also is found on the first side. In contrast, the album's second side has nothing out of the ordinary to offer, and there is a hideous rhyming of the words Paris, embarrass and heiress on the song "Libby."

• "Sincerely" by the Dwight Twilley Band (Shelter). Last year there was a semi-hit-single, "I'm On Fire," which was reminiscent of the Hollies. That fun dose of British sound was by this band, headed by Twilley of Tulsa, Okla., and Phil Seymour.

I've always had a soft spot in my heart for the mid-'60s British sounds, so this album is a joy to me. It sounds like a mixture of half dozen British groups with a little Elvis and Everly Brothers thrown in.

The music is predictable once a song begins, but there is enough diversity to keep the whole thing from bogging down.

"I'm On Fire" is the best song, but "You Were so Warm," "TV" and "Sincerely" are good also.

Soundings:

ERIC BURDEN (the Animals, early War) is preparing a concept album, to be called "Mirage."

England's Melody Maker magazine reports the album will be three separate, tragic stories. One story will deal with a militant American Indian, one with a rock singer and the third with a ghetto black who enlists, is sent to Vietnam and dies.

Originally the album was to have been a sound track for a movie.

Folk-rock balladeer SHAWN PHILLIPS, while swimming in the Mediterranean earlier this month, got his long, long hair entangled in a boat's propeller shaft. His injuries were several head cuts, which required stitches, plus the loss of almost all his hair.

In the area: AVERAGE WHITE BAND, tonight, Auditorium Theatre, Chicago; BAY CITY ROLLERS, tonight, Uptown Theater, Chicago; ELECTRIC LIGHT ORCHESTRA and WIDOWMAKER, Sunday, International Amphitheatre, Chicago; and DIZZY GILLESPIE, tonight and Saturday, First Chicago Center, Chicago.

Account of Israeli raid on bookstands in 3 weeks

The book stall

"90 MINUTES AT ENTEBBE" BY WILLIAM STEVENSON
Bantam, $1.95

"90 Minutes at Entebbe" is a literary feat almost equal to the stunning Israeli commando raid upon which it is based.

William Stevenson, author of the behind-the-cloak look at World War II expionage in "A Man Called Intrepid," has produced a gripping account of the political maneuvering and military daring that freed 103 hostages being held captive by Palestinian terrorists in Uganda.

Even before the stunning raid was completed, Stevenson's contacts with Israel's intelligence network had given him the word of what was happening. While the commandos were beginning their mission, Stevenson was on the telephone with his editors laying down the story outline.

Coupled with material supplied by Israeli journalist Uri Dan and his own post-raid dash to Israel, Stevenson has put together what amounts to an incredible piece of journalism.

THE FAST-READING 216-page book includes everything from interviews with hostages, background profiles on the hijackers and their supposed leaders to verbatim transcripts of the bizarre telephone conversations between Uganda's erratic Idi Amin and Israeli Col. Baruch Bar-Lev.

As thorough a piece of journalism as this book is, it becomes even more noteworthy when it is realized that it was on the stands three weeks after the raid. Of course, movie rights were negotiated with equally dazzling speed.

While "90 Minutes at Entebbe" may not be a definitive book or account of the operation, it is without question the point from which all others will begin. Time will tell whether more leisurely and scholarly studies and accounts of the attack will be half as intriguing as Stevenson's fine and timely effort.

"TOUCH NOT THE CAT," BY MARY STEWART
Morrow, $8.95

Men may smile tolerantly at poorly written books whose main merit is mayhem, with violence strewn across the pages at a rate that would make Attila the Hun cringe, but mention gothic novels and the smile turns into a smirk.

Gothics have their masters — or perhaps mistresses, since women most often are the authors nowadays — and Mary Stewart is one of them. In "Touch Not The Cat" she has written a very model of a modern gothic that should climb up the best seller lists in no time flat.

Mrs. Stewart in this tale returns to modern England after two Arthurian novels, "The Crystal Cave" and "The Hollow Hills."

HER BASIC PLOT involves an English girl, Bryony Ashley, of good family, fallen on genteel poverty. At her father's sudden death in an auto accident in Germany, she returns from a job in Madeira to Ashley Court, where strange goings on involve her, her handsome cousins and others in a plot as labyrinthian as the maze that decorates the estate.

The author, who wields a fine hand with the eerie and strange, stirs an extra ingredient into the traditional gothic mix of mystery and romance. Bryony has the Ashley gift, handed down from gypsy Bess Ashley — telepathy.

Mrs. Stewart is too wise to allow extra sensory perception to take over the novel — she just gives her heroine a trace of it. Bryony is able to communicate with someone since childhood — someone whom she refers to as her lover — but although their minds have met many times she does not know who he is.

NEEDLESS TO SAY, by the end of the novel, she learns the truth, as she and her lover unravel the meaning of the disjointed message left her by her dying father.

"Touch Not The Cat" is the kind of gothic that made the genre popular. Ashley Court may not be the real world, but a visit there makes marvelous escape reading.

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

"The Bingo Long Traveling All-Stars and Motor Kings" — The adventures of a team of black baseball players barnstorming their way across the midwest in 1939 have been shaped into a joyful, exuberant and thoroughly involving entertainment. A great script and a fine cast led by Billy Dee Williams and James Earl Jones. (PG).

"Obsession" — A masterfully concocted remantic suspense drama, themed to a guilt-ridden New Orleans businessman who meets up with an exact double of his late wife 16 years after she and his daughter ostensibly perished during a kidnap caper after he botched their ransom. Stars Cliff Robertson and Genevieve Bujold. (PG).

"Logan's Run" — Great special effects work at odds with a banal and derivative storyline in a lavishly mounted futuristic scie-fi entry about a handsome young couple (Michael York and Jenny Agutter) who escape from a 23rd century civilization which sets the human life span at 30 years. (PG).

"Harry and Walter Go to New York" — James Caan and Elliott Gould play a pair of broadly bumpling vaudevillians who finally make the grade as safecrackers at the turn-of-the-centry. An unabashedly silly, but rather likeable farce for easy summer laugher. (PG).

"Hawmps" - "F Troop" on camels, from the producer of "Benji." For an Army experiment a cavalry unit in the American Southwest reluctantly rides camels instead of horses. A witless parody of westerns, that nevertheless, should appeal to kids. (G).

"Silent Movie" — Mum's the word from Mel Brooks in this big-budget contemporary silent movie that unleashes a cascade of sight gags, pratfalls and broadly comic set pieces, linked to the connecting story of a minor studio's last-ditch efforts to avoid bankruptcy. Stars Mel Brooks, Marty Feldman and Dom Deluise. (PG).

ARLINGTON — Arlington Heights — 255-2125 — "That's Entertainment Part II" (G).
CATLOW — Barrington — 381-0777 — "Bad News Bears" (PG)

ELK GROVE — Elk Grove — 593-2255 — "Murder By Death" (PG)

PALWAUKEE MOVIES — Prospect Heights — 541-7530 — "Gus" (G)
TRADEWINDS — Hanover Park — 537-3933 — Theater 1: "Pom Pom Girls" (R); Theater 2: "Hawmps" (G) and "Benji's Life Story." (G)

Richard Harris: back to basics

by DICK KLEINER

Richard Harris is back. Maybe you didn't know that he was away, but he was.

"I had a lean period," says the brilliant Irish actor.

"Most of the films I made at first were distinguished failures, so I went out to do commercial films — and they were worse. So I laid off for a year."

When we think of Richard Harris, we think, probably, of a busy actor with a lot of films to his credit. He says that's the general impression, but it's a wrong impression. He says in his whole career, from 1966 to 1975, he made only 10 movies.

BUT THIS YEAR, to mark his return from that year he didn't work at all, he's made three films. The climax of this Harris resurgence is "The Return of a Man Called Horse," which is opening to triumphant reviews and demands for an Oscar nomination for the star.

There may be some difference of opinion about the film, but none about the star. Harris is outstanding.

His other films this year are the already finished "Cassandra Crossing," with Sophia Loren, Burt Lancaster and Harris' wife, Ann Turkel, and the about-to-star "Orca," the story of a killer whale's vendetta against the fisherman who accidentally killed the whale's family.

"I think," Harris says, "that 'Orca' is the best part I was ever offered."

HARRIS SAYS THIS year is an attempt to reconstruct his career, to go back to the basics, to make films that say something. And "The Return of a Man Called Horse" emphasizes that position.

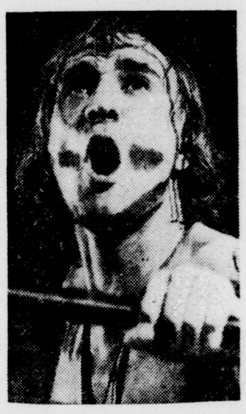
"This is not a sequel to the first 'Man Called Horse' movie," Harris says. "It's an independent movie. The man goes back to England, realizes he doesn't fit in, comes back to the Indians and stays. It exists on its own, without the first one."

While Harris' career is coming back, his wife's career is booming, too. She's in demand, because the movie folks are learning that she's a good actress, to go along with her extraordinary good looks.

"EVERYTHING IS taking off for both of us," Harris says. "We like working together — as we did in 'Cassandra Crossing' — but we're not going to make a habit of it.

"She doesn't want to become a Jill Ireland (Charles Bronson's wife, who works in all his films) because she's too good to be another Jill Ireland."

So he's working and she's working and that puts a strain on the logistics of their marriage. But Harris doesn't mind subordinating his career to hers.



Richard Harris

"If there are separations," he says, "we'll work them out. She's been with me while I made my last two pictures, so now I owe her one. I'll go wherever she has to go when she does her next one."

Their only home is a place on Paradise Island, off Nassau, in the Bahamas. They've been there 18 days in the past year, but that's where they're heading after "Orca" is in the can.

Ballerina forced to leave movie

Ballerina Gelsey Kirkland has been forced to withdraw from her costarring role in the Herbert Ross-Arthur Laurents film "The Turning Point" because of tendonitis. Also in the film is her American Ballet Theatre partner Mikhail Baryshnikov. "The Turning Point," which had begun location shooting in New York when Kirkland bowed out, features Anne Bancroft and Shirley MacLaine. (UPI)

'Man Called Horse' sequel is better than expected

by DAVID DUGAS
(A review)

Richard Harris liked his 1969 movie "A Man Called Horse" so much he has personally collaborated with its producer, Sandy Howard, on a sequel.

"The Return of a Man Called Horse" won't make history, but it is a good deal better than one might expect of a sequel that is part remake.

The Indian ritual in which cords were threaded under the skin of Harris' chest is repeated for no apparent reason except that it is catchingly revolting. And it is truly puzzling that so many Italianate and Hispanic actors have been cast as Indians now that everybody knows there are plenty of real ones.

It is nice to have Gale Sondergaard back on the screen. But as Elk Woman, doyenne of the Yellow Hand tribe, she suggests a latter-day Debra Paget.

OTHERWISE, "The Return of a Man Called Horse" provides an engrossing look at the Indian side of the American frontier, circa 1825. Richard Harris seems born to play the English Lord John Morgan and it is easy to see why he wanted to play him again.

The brusque nobleman first is seen at his stately English mansion pining away for the good old days among the Indians. He returns to America only to find his beloved Yellow Hand decimated by a rival tribe now in the service of white trappers.

The balance of the 129-minute picture has him restoring the Yellow Hands to power against the background of South Dakota's Custer State Park and various Mexican locations.

JACK DE WITT'S script is literate. And director Irvin Kershner ("Loving," "Up the Sandbox"), with cinematographer Owen Roizman ("The Exorcist"), delivers a film of remarkable beauty and detail, highlighted by Laurence Rosenthal's score.

The American Humane Association has rated the film "not acceptable" because of numerous instances of horse tripping and the killing of some buffalo.

"The Return of a Man Called Horse" is from United Artists and is rated PG.

'That Championship Season'

The whole team pitches in

by GENIE CAMPBELL

(A review)

William Conrad is right at home on live stage. It is remarkable that the established director/actor who has experienced so many other facets of the business has never before turned to the theater.

Nevertheless, his presence is all-encompassing in "That Championship Season," one of the more dramatically challenging plays yet to be staged at Arlington Park Theatre under its present management.

The three-act Jason Miller play is well recognized, having received numerous awards, including the top one, the 1973 Pulitzer Prize for Drama.

Because it has not been staged in Chicago since Forrest Tucker brought it here in 1974, the play's impact is as strong and intense as ever, its emotional undercurrents every bit as relevant.

YET CONRAD, though very good, is only one cog in the production wheel that highlights an ensemble of male actors whose only flaw I noticed was appearing a bit older than the 20-year reunion might suggest.

But then, those 20 years since they played high school basketball together have been real crosses to bear as witnessed by the small town values, needs and human weaknesses gradually exposed.

Raw and tragic for the most part, the only humor to be found consists of the drunken mumblings of one cynic at the cost of embarrassment and guilt to his buddies. Yet that's where Miller excels — intertwining laughs with the misery. And director Jerry Adler knows how to make it work.

CONRAD'S SHORT, but massive physique that so aptly set him apart for five years as the favorite, gruff detective Cannon is just as valuable in playing a retired, still dominating coach whose only great moment in life was seeing his boys take the high school basketball championship.

It is under this phony ritual of a reunion that he gathers his team (now all 38 years old) whose members have mellowed into a two-bit, small-town politician, unfulfilled junior high school principal, a bored businessman and the town drunk who is the only one to recognize his own shortcomings.

The coach is in his glory, taking charge, whipping his boys back into shape, disciplining their lives as he once did 20 years ago.

Eddie Jones deftly handles one of the most difficult roles, that of the short-sighted mayor, a role he originated on Broadway. And Peter Masterson is also recreating his role, that of the drunken loser.

EQUALLY FINE in their performances are Michael Fairman as the well-meaning principal and Danny Aiello as a disappointed businessman.

"That Championship Season" continues through Sept. 12 and lest there be any misunderstanding — this is serious thought-provoking adult drama. Kids who want to see their television hero live on stage best wait until Conrad tackles something a bit more Walt Disney.

Tickets now available for two Goodman series

Goodman Theatre Center, under the artistic direction of William Woodman and the managing directorship of John Economos, has scheduled a series of six plays in its Mainstage professional series and five plays in Stage 2, Goodman's other professional series, for the 1976-77 season.

The Mainstage series opens with Noel Coward's "Design for Living," directed by Woodman, Oct. 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the Goodman theater, 200 Columbus Dr. This production marks the first time "Design for Living" has ever been done in Chicago.

GOODMAN'S STAGE 2 series will open with "Sizwe Banzi Is Dead" by Arthol Fugard, John Nani and Winston Ntshona on Oct. 21 at 8:30 p.m. in the Ruth Page Auditorium, 1016 N. Dearborn St.

Highlights of the season on the main stage will be the Chicago premiere of David Rabe's "Streamers," Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey into Night," George Kelly's enduring American comedy "The Show-off," Shakespeare's historical chronicle "Richard III" with a cast of 37 characters and Moliere's serious comedy "Don Juan."

THE GOODMAN season on Stage 2 will feature Ann Jelicoe's "The Sport of My Mad Mother" as the second play in the series and "The Prague Spring" by Lee Kalcheim as the third. Plays four and five have not been announced.

All 11 Goodman productions are being offered on two separate subscription series with special discounts to Goodman Mainstage subscribers who also attend Stage 2.

Subscriptions to both series are on sale at the Goodman Box Office, 200 S. Columbus Dr., Chicago, 60603. Prices range from $21.45 to $50.10 for the Mainstage series of six plays. Stage 2 rates are $15, or $13 for those who also subscribe to Mainstage. Further information is available at 443-3800.

Tune-up time starts Sept. 7 for Northwest Choralettes

Soon as the Labor Day holiday is over, bright and early Tuesday morning, Sept. 7, rehearsals begin for the 1976-77 season for Northwest Choralettes.

The choral and instrumental group of women meet every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at Northwest Suburban YMCA, Des Plaines, as part of the adult recreation program of the Y.

Openings are now available for membership in the Choralettes. Women living in any of the Northwest communities are welcome to attend the first rehearsal to get acquainted.

TUNING UP for the Northwest Choralettes' 1976-77 season are director Pat Ferguson, Des Plaines, and Sharon Mahnke, Harriet Diekhoff and Sue Fanckboner, all of Mount Prospect.

Pat Ferguson of Des Plaines, musical director and conductor, has led the contemporary chorus for 11 years, presenting a concept of song combined with instrumentation by piano, electric keyboard, drums, bass and unusual rhythm pieces.

THE GROUP appears for all types of organizations, offering programs suited to any suggestions. Included in this year's repertoire will be the music of popular composers Barry Manilow, Captain & Tennille, Paul McCartney and John Denver; also Broadway and movie hits, familiar calypso melodies, sacred music and several songs composed specially for the singers.

They also give concerts annually and make at least one record album every year.

Performances are being scheduled, and arrangements for them can be made with Mrs. Ferguson at 827-1948.

'The Way of the World'

Fine acting despite length

Night out

When the program for William Congreve's Restoration masterpiece "The Way of the World" mentions that the plot is an intricate one, you'd better believe it. By the time Act V rolled around, many of the theatergoers at Ravinia's Murray Theater were showing signs of restlessness, and the convoluted story line was undoubtedly a factor.

But if anyone can stage a comedy from the 1700s, that was coolly received when first performed, skillfully trace Congreve's sophiscated sneering ing at English manners, and still produce laughter for a three-hour time span in 1976, tne Julliard School's Acting Company is worthy of the task.

THE ACTING Company, now in its fifth season, launched its second annual three-week residency at Ravinia Park Tuesday, and with "The Way of the World" it maintains its reputation as one of the country's strongest classical repertory companies.

Norman Aryton, formerly of the London Academy of Musical and Dramatic Art, directs a first-rate cast who performs well despite a slow start, from the leading lady Millimant down to the chambermaid Peg. The gestures are perfectly timed, inflections hilarious and fiacial expressions priceless as the 19-member gast makes its way through Congreve's satire on turn-of-the-century English aristocracy.

As we watch the playboy Mirabell woo the coquette Mrs. Millimant via an elaborate scheme involving her rich aunt Lady Wishfort, various friends and lovers and two servats named Foible and Waitwell, Congreve's themes of sex, wealth and social hypocrisy come out in full force.

THE ENTIRE CAST — particularly Mary Lou Rosato as Millimant and Claudia Wilkens as Lady Wishfort — do justice to Congreve's sharply honed wit. Many of the play's one-liners are as effective today as they were when written, and the audience reacted well to Lady Wishfort's complaints that her face looked like "an old peeled wall" and she felt as pale and faint as "Mrs. Qualmsick . . . who's always breeding."

The "proviso" scene between Mirabell and Mrs. Millamant in which the two lovers list their respective requirements for a marriage is well done, especially Mrs. Millimant's mincing demands which include a moratorium on "wife, spouse, my dear, joy, jewel, love, sweetheart, and the rest of that nauseous cant, in which men and their wives are so fulsomely familiar."

DESPITE THE acting, "The Way of the World" tends to bog down, especially in the last act. Except for a few scenes like the raucous entrance of the country bumpkin Sir Wilfull Witwoud, drunk and roaring about the state of Mrs. Millimant's maidenhead, most of the play is short on physical action, and while the lines are clever, three hours seem a little hard to take in 1976.

"The Way of the World" is at Murray Theater through Sunday and will be followed by Shakespeare's "Love's Labour's Lost" and Arnold Wesker's "The Kitchen."

There's a fresh new Barnaby's in Arlington Heights. Exactly where the old one was.

You know the Barnaby's on Rand Road at Kennicott? The one that's been closed for several weeks.

Well, now we're having a Grand re-Opening. Because we've totally remodeled the kitchen and have polished the family dining area.

BARNABY'S FAMILY INN

Free pitcher of 7-Up.

7up

To kick off our Grand re-Opening, we're giving a free pitcher of 7-Up with any large pizza eaten in our family dining area. Just like before, at Barnaby's you have many different kinds of pizza to choose from. All made with the finest ingredients—including freshly mixed pizza dough daily.

Introducing a new addition to our menu, too.

Spaghetti. Thin vermicelli with fresh homemade meat sauce. There's even a spaghetti platter for kids. And tiny tot's spaghetti that comes in tiny pieces. So the whole family can enjoy all the great Barnaby's food. And now, even spaghetti.

Free Kiddie Burger for kids.

During our Grand re-Opening, children under 12 accompanied by an adult receive their Kiddie Burger free—So take the whole hungry family out to Barnaby's.

You can't beat the food or a deal like this.

But hurry, all offers are good daily until 9:00 PM, Aug. 26 to Sept. 5. Come help us celebrate our Grand re-Opening.

Pay TV on every table to entertain the diner

Meals at the Captain's Steak Joynt could be called TV dinners, depending on how loud the patrons next to you play the pay television sets located on each table.

The televisions (25 cents for 15 minutes of viewing) are the first thing you notice as you enter the restaurant at Algonquin Road and Route 83 in Elk Grove Village.

My dining partner and I chose not to deposit money in our own personal set and attempted to ignore the distractions of nearby boob tubes.

That, of course, was not entirely possible since we were surrounded by avid viewers of "Rockford Files."

Despite it all, we concentrated on the food.

CAPTAIN'S HAS A varied menu but features fish and steak — combinations being the main drawing cards.

Featuring:
Captain's Steak Joynt

My guest chose the Sirloin en Brouchette, $4.25, marinated pieces of steak with cherry tomatoes, peppers, mushrooms and onions served on a bed of rice. She was disappointed that the beef was tough and fatty. Also, there were no mushrooms, as promised on the menu.

I chose the lobster-Alaskan King Crab combination, $8.75.

The crab was excellent. It was large and cooked to perfection. I was hoping for similar results from the broiled lobster. Unfortunately, it tasted like steak — leading me to guess it was broiled with my guest's steak or in a broiler also used for steak.

SOME OTHER ITEMS include: baked lobster Newburg, $5.50; fresh perch, $2.75; veal Parmesan, $3.75; chicken cacciatorri, $3.95; and porterhouse steak, $6.75.

Lobster alone is $6.95 and the steak and lobster combination is $8.25.

Most meals include soup, potato and the salad bar, which consists of potato and macaroni salads, relishes, beets and fruit cocktail.

The clam chowder can be rated only "average," since it lacks the strong, fresh taste that adds distinction.

Next time I think I will order just the king crab, and I'll check the TV Guide first to make sure my favorite show is on.

—Bill Hill

DPTG's 31st season opens Sept. 10 with 'Show Boat'

"Show Boat," the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein musical comedy, will open the Des Plaines Theatre Guild's 31st season in September. Nine performances are scheduled at Guild Playhouse, Des Plaines, three weekends, Sept. 10, 11, 12, 17, 18, 19, 24, 25 and 26.

Starring in the DPTG cast are Kathy Lubinsky of Palatine and Joel Weisberg, Skokie. Leading players from the Northwest suburbs are Ron Nicholas, Arlington Heights; Venus Miller, Prospect Heights; and Jackie Shadinger and Vince Bonata, Des Plaines.

Other local members of the company are Des Plaines residents Laura Ganey, Marshall Kievit, Lucy Klein, Gayle Maday, Stan Levy, Chris and Larry Peterson and Bruce Weaver. Also, Don Collignon and Debbie Zdunek, Mount Prospect; Joyce Nicholas and Heather Wulf, Arlington Heights; and Margaret Downham and Gail Yokubinas, Palatine; John Buckley Jr., Paul Caldarola and Danny Santerior, Hoffman Estates; and Roy Quid, Schaumburg.

John Klein, Des Plaines, is producer; Raoul Johnson, Schaumburg, director. The orchestra is directed by John Van Hook, also of Schaumburg and the chorus by Betty Myers, Mount Prospect.

Ticket information for "Show Boat" or season subscriptions for the six plays being presented during 1976-77 at Guild Playhouse are available at the box office, 296-1211, between noon and 8 p.m. daily.

Special rates for students and senior citizens with ID cards will be in effect for Friday and Sunday performances.

Gospel singer to appear in concert at Randhurst

Doug Oldham, a gospel recording artist, will appear Friday, Sept. 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Randhurst Arena, Mount Prospect. The concert is the first of the Master's Concert Series, a yearlong schedule of sacred music programs.

In his career, Oldham has sung with Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians and with several symphony orchestras. His albums are usually recorded in London with the Philharmonic.

Appearing on the Randhurst program with Oldham is Truth, a 19-member contemporary ensemble, and Family Reunion, a group of nine professional gospel singers who act as Oldham's backup.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at Randhurst Arena and at cooperating churches and Christian bookstores in the Chicagoland area. Admission is $5 in advance and $6 at the door, for both adults and children. Ticket information is available by calling 346-3912.

'Texas Trilogy' at Kennedy Center

The Kennedy Center in Washington, D. C. is presenting Preston Jones' "A Texas Trilogy" through Sept. 12 prior to a Sept. 17 Broadway opening. The three comedies — "Lu Ann Hampton Laverty Oberlander," "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" and "The Oldest Living Graduate" — all are set in the fictional Texan Town of Bradleyville, and concern the same characters, though each is complete in itself.

Jones wrote them while he was a member of the acting company at the Dallas Theatre Center, where they were first presented. They had their first professional production as a trilogy at the Kennedy Center's Eisenhower Theater in April and June.

"The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" was staged here last season at Goodman Theatre last season. (UPI)

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Many remedies help lessen hemorrhoids

Hemorrhoids! Doctors' columns and volumes have been written about the care and treatment of hemorrhoids, but despite being such a common problem, nothing I have read instructs me in how to prevent them from getting any worse or even curing them short of surgery.

At 51, I am active, play tennis and golf and am in good physical condition except for what my doctor calls a moderate case of hemorrhoids — bleeding after an elimination several times in succession every two weeks.

I avoid heavy lifting. My office job involves sitting, but I move about intentionally and exercise daily. Diet has never triggered or affected this condition. I have always eaten plenty of roughage, nuts and salads except on those specific occasions after an examination when my doctor would specifically recommend a bland diet. It was questionable whether it actually helped or hindered.

I know this condition is probably progressing toward the inevitable surgery someday. Why? The medical profession has done less about this condition through the years than about the common cold. The percentage of people who experience some sort of elimination problem because of hemorrhoids after age 40 would probably astound the world. Active or inactive, bland or roughage, to bleed or not to bleed, to cut or not to cut. What do we do now, doctor?

If you don't like what the medical profession has to offer for hemorrhoids today, you could use one of the ancient treatments. The patient was held down while a red hot poker was applied to the hemorrhoids. Perhaps with this treatment in mind you will retract your statement that the doctors have made little progress in this area.

Seriously, hemorrhoids are varicose veins of the rectal area. And you are right, they are very common. Anyone who gets as much mail as I do from people everywhere is acutely aware of how common this problem is.

The veins become overstretched and dilated which is all a hemorrhoid is. The best that can be offered in prevention is to avoid anything that overstretches the veins in this area.

Being upright, two-footed creatures, gravity plays a role in causing hemorrhoids just as it does in varicose veins. You don't normally have overdilated varicose veins of the arms or head area because these areas drain down to the heart. Similarly, four-footed animals seldom have hemorrhoids because the heart is in the chest below the rectal area.

Childbirth often causes hemorrhoids because of the excess pressure on the veins in this area during delivery of the head of the baby.

The best aid in preventing distention of the rectal veins is to avoid straining during elimination. That means you need to avoid constipation and bowel problems. Sometimes a stool softener is helpful if needed. Usually the diets that contain adequate amounts of cereal fiber to provide adequate bulk and "softage" will help avoid this problem.

If you will follow a program along the lines of that suggested in The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation, which I am sending you, that may help. Others who want this information on bowel management can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Proper wraps avoid odors in frozen foods

Dear Dorothy: Lately, when I take plastic-wrapped bakery items — cookies, waffles, cake and so forth — from my freezer the food has a kind of plastic taste — almost as if I had put a drop of kerosene in the recipe. We cannot eat the food and I am annoyed because of the work and waste. Usually I put the cookies in a shoe box, lined in plastic with waxed paper between the layers. Sometimes, I just use plastic bags. — Lois Dryden

I'd guess you are using plastic bags that aren't designed for freezer use. Plastic film canbe thin as one millimeter and odors can go out as easily as they go in. Used bags often retain the odors of what they contained. Plastic bags designed for freezer storage are made with extra thicknesses or barrier coatings, invisible to the naked eye but there, nevertheless. Freezer directions sinsist on specific wrappings and designated storage times. Even with recommended containers, it's wise to cool food before storing.

Dear Dorothy: My son has a part-time job at a nearby garage. His clothes are filthy with greasy ground-in dirt. Detergent isn't enough to take it out. What else can I do? — Abby Messer

Put a cup of household ammonia in with the detergent — and use water as hot as the material will stand.

Dear Dorothy: I enjoy square dancing and would like to know how to keep my nylon skirts full and fluffy. —Joy Herron

Best way to launder and renew such garments is to rinse them in a solution of two cups Epsom salts to one quart of water.

Dear Dorothy: What do you have to put into a burned pan when it is put into the sun to get out the burned glop? — Betty Gorman Nothing. The sun does all the cleaning on its own.

China trip worth the red tape

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

One of the things Virginia Fiester remembers most about China is the cold.

Mrs. Fiester, president of the Illinois Association of University Women and a member of the Illinois State League of Women Voters International Relations Committee, led a group of 23 to mainland China last January.

In a recent slide presentation for the Palatine League of Women Voters, Mrs. Fiester related how the group had bundled up to fend off temperatures that never rose above 45 degrees — even indoors, because the Chinese do not heat their buildings. Not even hospitals and schools.

And for the trek to the famed Great Wall of China, the Illinoisans piled on even more clothes, for the mercury there read minus 40 degrees, with a strong wind.

BUT THE GROUP would not have dreamed of turning down the long-awaited invitation.

It allstarted when the AAUW sponsored a China study in which Mrs. Fiester along with professors and other experts in Asian studies took part.

"A hard-core of us became addicted to China," Mrs. Fiester said, so in 1973 she wrote a six-page letter to Chairman Mao Tse-Tung asking if they could visit. A member of his staff wrote back saying they would be welcome to come as soon as facilities were available.

Gaining permission to go and making all the arrangements was, according to Mrs. Fiester, a monumental exercise in red-tape-cutting. But after three years the AAUW and League China experts and some of their husbands finally set off for an 18-day tour in China.

THEY ARE AMONG only 5,000 non-Chinese Americans who have visited that country in the last 25 years, according to Mrs. Fiester.

It was to be a particularly memorable experience, for on the second day after their arrival, Premier Chou En-Lai died.

"We were just astounded by the outpouring of grief. By noon of that day everyone everywhere was wearing black armbands. We decided that wherever we went, we would offer our condolences to these people, and when we did, they all cried," Mrs. Fiester recalled.

She said that despite the group's thorough backgrounding on China, they were still surprised at the progress that has been made since the Communist revolution in 1949.

"THE CHINESE ARE still poor by U. S. standards, but no one is starving, no one was inadequately dressed." She said 80 per cent of the people are literate now compared to 20 per cent before 1949. They also, she said, have excellent health care delivery systems and claim to have no crime problem.

"But in spite of all that," Mrs. Fiester said, "there is absolutely no freedom. There is no choice of education, no privacy — which is unbelievable to Americans."

Mrs. Fiester pointed out, however, that the Chinese are dealing with 940 million people now, and "maybe this is the only way they can go; maybe we'll have to let go some of our freedoms as our numbers increase, too."

The Chinese do practice birth control, she said, having introduced such devices as the IUD long ago. They also practice abortion and they discourage early marriage. Mrs. Fiester said the group's young interpreters and guides could not be persuaded to express any romantic interest in the opposite sex. "They are comrades," the young people would insist solemnly, she said.

WITH TYPICAL thoroughness, these interpreters had used flash card exercises to memorize names and other information about each of the 23 Americans before their arrival, so that they walked right up to their guests and greeted them by name at the outset.

Mrs. Fiester said the Americans were free to walk about by themselves in the evenings and did not feel they were under surveillance at any time. However, when they got home and began looking at the photographs they had taken, they noticed one particular individual, unknown to them, appeared somewhere in the background of most of their pictures.

The group visited a fruit-growing commune of 26,000 residents; toy, steel, and watch factories; schools of every level including Peking University; museums, hospitals, shrines and memorials, ancient tombs and architectural remains.

They witnessed two surgeries using acupuncture anesthesia, during which both patients waved to them frequently.

AS WITH MOST Americans who have visited China, Mrs. Fiester's group was espeically taken with the young children, who she says are taught to perform dances and plays with professional polish from kindergarten on. But she thought the primary school children, who attended classes in groups of 60, seemed "regimented."

In one of the frequent rap sessions with the Chinese, Mrs. Fiester's group learned that Communist Chinese philosophy holds that there are certain "ropes of oppression," such as political parties and religion. However, Chinese men consider there are only three ropes of oppression, while Chinese women point to four. Their list includes men.

Women in China work alongside the men in the fields and factories, Mrs. Fiester said, but they also get paid maternity leave and they retire at age 55 with a percentage of their salary as pension.

It is also becoming more common in China for the men to share household and childcare chores, Mrs. Fiester said, and recalled visiting one home where the husband "came bursting in with a tray of tea" while the wife visited with the Americans.

AAUW starts chapter

Mary Carlson, immediate past president of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) will speak at the organizational meeting Sept. 8 of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove chapter. Ms. Carlson, Prospect Heights, is a nominee for national first vice-president of AA/W.

The meeting will be held at 7:45 p.m. at the home of Joyce Hammons, 34 University Drive, Buffalo Grove.

Officers will be elected and by-laws discussed. Information, 537-7350 or 541-4871.

Nile, Amazon world's big rivers

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Lonnie Ramon, 8, of Murray, Utah, for his question:

WHAT IS THE BIGGEST RIVER?

The importance of rivers can hardly be exaggerated. Thousands of years ago great civilizations grew and prospered along their banks. The Nile of Egypt, the Tigris-Euphrates of Mesopotamia, the Indus of northern India and the Yellow River of China — all invited man to grow fertile crops and settle in lush, green valleys.

There are thousands of rivers in the world — some very large, some very small. The larger ones have given man a way to travel and transport goods. They provide water for farmlands, livestock, and fish for food. Many river beds contain valuable minerals such as gold and quartz. Even the tiniest river plays an important role in the scheme of nature. And, or course, our job is to use and enjoy the bounties rivers offer us — not pollute them.

Most authorities give the longest river award to the mighty Nile. From its main source in Lake Victoria in northeast Africa, it flows northward for 4,160 miles before emptying into the Mediterranean Sea. About 7.6 million acres of land in Egypt are irrigated by the Nile and about one-third as much in Sudan.

The Ile Valley and the Nile Delta are among the world's most fertile farming areas. For countless centuries water from the river spread particles of rich soil, giving life to the land on its long passage. In 1968 the two-mile-long Aswan High Dam at Aswan, Egypt, was completed. It ended the annual floods of the Nile and now generates electricity and provides a steady flow of water for irrigation.

The Amazon River in South America is unquestionably the world's biggest river. Almost as long as the Nile at about 4,000 miles, the Amazon has more water than the Nile, Mississippi and Yantze rivers combined. The Amazon is six miles wide in some places, and reaches depths of more than 300 feet. The world's largest tropical rain forest lies within the Amazon River basin and is about two-thirds the size of the United States.

The longest river in the United States is the Mississippi, which flows about 3,710 miles along its winding course. The St. Lawrence is Canada's largest river, spanning 1,900 miles.

Man has learned how to turn rushing rivers into controlled waterways for irrigation, electric power and many other uses. He has even diminished the terrible devastation of floods, which occur frequently throughout the world. Now the greatest challenge facing him, involving not just rivers but all water sources, is pollution. Hopefully modern technology can be applied in time to keep our planet's water pure.

Andy send a Student Globe to Susan Bragdon, 15, of Portland Ore., for her question:

HOW HAS THE COYOTE BEEN ABLE TO SURVIVE?

For a long time now, efforts to get rid of the coyote have benn costly and time-consuming. But they have not been altogther successful. In fact, although 50,000 or so coyotes are killed every year, the sly, clever creature continues to hold his own. One of the keys to this iron-willed determination to survive is the coyote's ability to adapt. He can live just about anywhere, under all sorts of conditions, and he will eat just about anything. What's more, he can outsmart many of his supposed superiors in the animal world.

The coyote, who many scientists believe does more good than harm in the balance of nature, has several other things going for him. Being quite small and well camouflaged, he is difficult to see. Also, he is quite a sprinter — reaching speeds up to 40 miles per hour. Probably his best talent, though, is the ingenious way he develops a new defense for every new attack.

Marriage top priority for Diahann

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Diahann Carroll will be seen this summer in four television musical specials which she completed in the most difficult five days of her life.

Diahann worked at CBS-TV from 6 o'clock in the morning until 1 a.m. to meet her deadlines.

"I'd go home, take a lot of vitamins and tumble into bed," she says, laughing, "and I slept fast."

DIAHANN HASN'T worked that hard since her years in the title role of the old "Julia" series.

Life has changed considerably since those days for the actress-singer. She was married a year and a half ago to Robert DeLeon, a Los Angeles public relations man.

Last April they moved to a new home in Beverly Hills. She gave up a rambling mansion in Benedict Canyon because it seemed too big and empty when her daughter, Suzanne, 15, went off to boarding school.

Diahann hasn't worked in a nightclub since last year. She puts her marriage ahead of her career, spending as much time at home as possible.

MOST MORNINGS Diahann arises early to have a breakfast of cider vinegar, honey and hot water. Then she heads for her Wilshire Bouldevard office, which houses SuMo Productions.

The company name is an amalgam of Suzanne, Diahann's daughter by a previous marriage, and Monica, DeLeon's daughter who lives in the East with his ex-wife.

She answers mail at the office, attends meetings, goes over music, takes wardrobe inventory and attends to other business affairs. Diahann has diet lunches at inconspicuous little restaurants.

Two or three times a week Diahann takes vocal lessons. Regular calisthentics and massages keep her physically fit.

She is an avid collector of old phonograph records and recently found two rare Josephine Baker albums.

Whenever the DeLeons can steal a week together they take off for Puerta Vallarta, Mexico.

Safety play sinks Titanic

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

On looking over our collection of hands we find one from the Bridge World of May, 1940. It is from an article by J. C. Stablein entitled, "Precaution."

The author does not give the bidding or the East-West hands, but comments that they probably used precaution in only getting to five spades.

The queen of diamonds is opened and South ducks in dummy. The precaution was necessary to guard against finding West with all six diamonds.

We have taken the liberty of making up our own East-West hands. We put the same cautious declarer in the South seat. He ducks the first diamond and now look what happens to him.

West continues with the deuce of diamonds. East ruffs that lead. He had started with exactly one diamond. Then East leads a club. West ruffs and South's safety play has become an unsafety play.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Sports confusion...no way to keep up

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

Something continues to bother me. I don't know whether it's smart to write about it, or even admit it.

Some people may take it the wrong way and say I'm not doing my job.

Anyway, it bugs me about once each year, and it struck home against Tuesday afternoon as I watched parts of the Cubs' game with the Houston Astros.

Andujar, Sambito, Pentz, McLaughlin.

That stopped me cold. Four names, four pitchers for the Astros, and I had never heard of any of them.

I mean, this is a major league club (anyway, that's what they say) and they trotted out four pitchers over nine innings, and I kept asking myself with each appearance, "Who's he?"

Apparently Andujar isn't too bad, and my first impulse in the office, when he was listed as the starting pitcher, was to say, "Hey, he's got a good arm, lots of potential. He's done the job at times this year."

Throw a few head fakes at the staff so you don't look like a fool.

You can cover a lot of ground and also cover up your ignorance by such descriptions as "good arm," "lots of potential," and "done the job at times." I mean, that could cover every young pitcher in the majors today.

Just make sure they're young and not some aging has-been.

They have to have potential or they wouldn't be up. They also have to have a good arm because a dead arm will keep them in Pawtucket. And if they got out of one inning, they've "done the job at times" so you're also covered there.

Unfortunately, I didn't go on my first impulse. I said, "Andujar? Never heard of him."

This immediately tipped off the rest of the sportswriters that the old-timer on the staff was losing his grasp of our national pastime.

That, I suppose, tells you something about me. But it also tells you something about what's happening in this business of sports.

Excuse me . . . but there is just too much going on to keep up with it at all.

I feel lost at times. Utterly lost.

Maybe if I forced myself to go to more professional events, or if I started collecting baseball, football, basketball and hockey cards again, I could work out of this chaos.

There was a time when I could keep up with all the teams in all the sports. There was a time when I could name practically all the players in the American and National leagues and throw in their uniform numbers for good measure.

There was a time, too, when I knew the names of all the coaches in hockey, basketball, and pro football, even the nicknames of these teams.

There was a time . . .

The only reason I know some players today is because they have their names stitched to the back of their jerseys.

When guys like Harthorne Wingo are making television commercials for franks, I know I've lost touch with what is going on in pro sports.

Where did he come from? How long has he been here? What is a Harthorne Wingo?

I long for the days of 16 major league baseball teams, 12 pro football teams, six (yes, six) hockey teams, and eight pro basketball teams.

No matter how hard a person tries these days, it's still hard to keep abreast of everything in professional sports. And they keep expanding. It never stops.

The pendulum has swung, the earth has turned. It's a new game, a whole new ball game as they say, and nowhere is this more obvious than in the chaotic world of sports.

The pendulum has swung, the earth has turned. What once is no more. It's a new game, a whole new ball game as they say, and nowhere is this more obvious than in the chaotic world of sports.

Forget Hank Sauer and Frankie Baumholtz and Dee Fondy. Forget Harlon Hill and Ed Sprinkle and Johnny Lujack. Forget Jim Rivera and Chico Carrasquel and Billy Pierce.

Their day is gone. They're over the hill, relegated to limbo by today's spanking new crop of modern, exactly life-size, anti-hero heroes.

Today I was reading a story about the major league baseball players who are playing out their options with the intention of becoming free agents at the end of the season.

I glanced down the list. It was encouraging. I had heard of the biggies. Reggie Jackson, Bobby Grich, Bert Campaneris, Sal Bando, Rollie Fingers, Joe Rudi, Don Baylor, Dave Cash, Dick Allen, Don Gullett . . .

Maybe things aren't so bad. Maybe I'm not losing my grasp. I do know the players.

Unfortunately, I continued to read the list.

Paul Dade, Billy Smith, Mike Miley, Sergio Ferrer . . .

Who??

Somebody's got to be kidding.

Where have you gone, Joe DiMaggio, when I need you the most?

LIKE THIS. St. Viator head football coach Jim Lyne gets his squad ready for their Sept. 10 opener against Forest View. The Lions are defending champs of the East Suburban Catholic Conference and were 6-3 last year, with two of the losses administered by Hersey. Viator meets Hersey Sept. 17.

Arlington triumphs in regional action

Special to The Herald

W. LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Kevin McBride fought off fatigue and drove in a run as he went nine grueling innings to lead the Arlington Heights American Legion team over Columbus, Ohio, 3-1, in the Great Lakes National Regional tournament.

McBride, who won his 10th game of the season, went a full nine innings for only the second time this year, scattering five hits and striking out five.

"Kevin threw nine innings against Cicero in the county tournament," said Arlington coach Lloyd Meyer. "We got that one run early and that was almost a moral victory for us. They had to come after us then."

Arlington took the lead in the third inning, working a little sleight of hand on an unsuspecting Columbus squad.

Paul Marsillo, the Arlington shortstop out of Rolling Meadows High School who had two hits, stroked his first single to centerfield,then stole second moments later.

Guy Tenuta, another Mustang, walked and Marsillo advanced to third on a wild pitch.

Arlington then tried one of their standard Meyer inventions, allowing Tenuta to be caught off first while Marsillo waltzed home when Columbus' attention was focused elsewhere.

"We're willing to do that to get a run," Meyer said. "Because we can play defense and a run early like that means alot."

Columbus got one back in the fourth inning when shortstop Jim Andreoff tripled and scored on a fielder's choice.

Arlington, who won their 11th straight tournament victory and 42nd of 46 games, took the lead for good in the sixth inning.

First baseman Tom Barnard singled and the Columbus outfielder bobbled it into a two base error and Arlington had a man on third with only one out.

Centerfielder Mike Mayerck then set down a suicide squeeze bunt to the pitcher, scoring Barnard with the go ahead run.

Third baseman Brett Frase displayed some of the defense Meyer is so proud of in the seventh inning, shutting off a potential big inning for Columbus.

Pinch hitter Terry Paffin punched a two-out double and a rapidly tiring McBride issued a visa to Columbus lead off batter, Jerry Krause.

Scott Stewart then hit a shot that Frase gobbled up and stepped on third to snuff the inning.

"I've had Brett for three years now," Meyer said, "and I almost take those kind of plays for granted. It's gotten to the point where if he blows one like that I get mad.

"But I've said before that he could play third for any major league club right now."

McBride put the finishing touch on the game in the ninth when he singled to score Mayerck, who had walked and stole second to get into scoring position.

Arlington, who has reached the semifinals of the tournament, will play again tonight at 8 p.m.

Astros whip Cubs, 5-3

Cesar Cedeno slashed a two-run triple and Bob Watson followed with a run-scoring double to give the Houston Astros a three-run first-inning lead and home-run hitting J. R. Richard picked up his 15th victory in a 5-3 win Thursday over the Cubs.

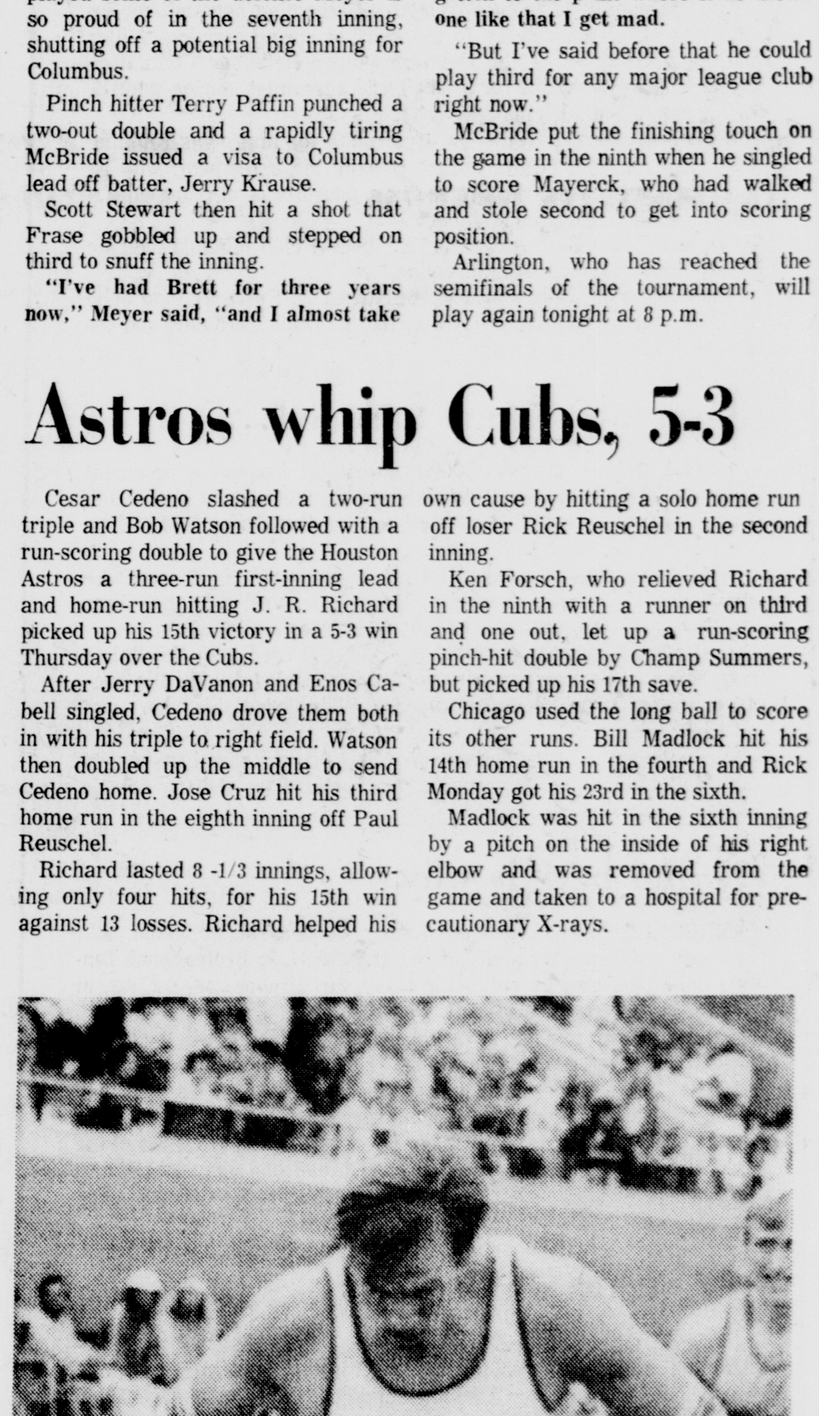
After Jerry DaVanon and Enos Cabell singled, Cedeno drove them both in with his triple to right field. Watson then doubled up the middle to send Cedeno home. Jose Cruz hit his third home run in the eighth inning off Paul Reuschel.

Richard lasted 8 -1/3 innings, allowing only four hits, for his 15th win against 13 losses. Richard helped his own cause by hitting a solo home run off loser Rick Reuschel in the second inning.

Ken Forsch, who relieved Richard in the ninth with a runner on third and one out, let up a run-scoring pinch-hit double by Champ Summers, but picked up his 17th save.

Chicago used the long ball to score its other runs. Bill Madlock hit his 14th home run in the fourth and Rick Monday got his 23rd in the sixth.

Madlock was hit in the sixth inning by a pitch on the inside of his right elbow and was removed from the game and taken to a hospital for precautionary X-rays.



Randy Wix—specialized athlete

Three golds, two world records

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Post-polio is a frightening term.

Randy Wix is post-polio, his chance to walk snatched from him at the age of 2½ by a disease that has been largely controlled in the years since.

Yet, Wix 23, is one of the finest specialized athletes in the world.

He proved that in August, when the nations of the world gathered in Canada.

Millions watched the swift athletes in Montreal while to the southwest, in Toronto, the athletes of the Olympiad for the Physically Disabled competed with hardly more than their peers for company.

Wix anchored a United States team that accomplished something its ambulatory counterparts couldn't equal.

They earned more medals than any other country in the world.

"I won golds in the 1500 meters, the 240 meter relay and basketball," Wix said.

He set a world record of 5:12.8 in the 1500 meters and shattered the world mark with a 2:44.5 time in the prelims of the 800 meters.

He also took three silver medals but once the Games of Toronto were over Wix was already looking for more competition.

"I aant to start a track team," he said. Wix and his wife, Maura, live in Wheeling and he said anyone interested can call their home (392-1526).

"If you practice by yourself you don't have any competition and what I'm trying to do is get enough guys together for a track team so we can compete among ourselves.

"I've been competing for two years and I've done really well. I want to show other people what it's possible to accomplish and help them."

Wix, who builds reproductions of antique furniture for the Bartley Collection in Lake Bluff, spends much of his free time designing a wheelchair that will be faster and more manueverable.

A chair he is currently building will weigh only 19 pounds, a mere shadow of the 40-pounder he wheeled in Toronto, which itself was one of the

Dan Sikes holds early Classic lead

AKRON, (UPI) — Veteran Dan Sikes, breaking a six-way log-jam with a birdie on the final hole, fired a six under par 66 Thursday to take the first round lead in the $200,000 American Golf Classic.

Sikes, a 45-year-old attorney from Jacksonville, Fla., rolled in a three-foot birdie putt on the 523-yard, par 5, 18th after it appeared there would be a six-way tie for the lead.

One shot behind Sikes with five under 67s on the 7,105-yard, par 72, Firestone Country Club North Course, were Ed Sneed, Fuzzy Zoeller, Mike McCullogh, Don Iverson and Bobby Wadkins.

Another shot back at 68 came George Cadle, Gil Morgan, Jerry McGee, Roy Pace, Gary McCord and defending champion Jim Colbert, as players batterred the relatively new North Course with 43 sub par scores.

Sikes, who missed much of the early 1976 tour because of the flu and a pulled arm muscle, had six birdies in his "nice, comfortable round."

He made the turn at three under par 33 and stayed that way until he reeled off birdies on three of the final four holes.

A six-time winner on the tour since he joined in 1961, Sikes has "played well the last four or five weeks" after starting back full-time in mid-June.

During the time he was off, he worked on revamping his putting stroke, which he credits for much of his recent success.

Evans wins state amateur

Tom Evans of Northbrook turned the tables on DeKalb's Mick Soli and captured the 46th annual Illinois State Amateur golf championship in Frankfort Thursday. Soli, the defending champ, won in a playoff last summer but yielded to Evans this time after both had knotted for the top spot at 285.

Meanwhile Dick VanDer Sande of Schaumburg, who was right in the hunt going into the last day of competition, fired rounds of 75 and 73 to finish at 291 and place fifth. Mark Taylor, the 16-year-old from Rockford who paced the pack over the first two days, could do no better than 13th after finishing at 296.

Evans logged a six and Soli a seven on the par-four playoff hole. Lance TenBroeck of Chicago placed third at 286 while Dave Huske of Glen Ellyin fashioned the lowest round of the tourney on his final 18 — a 67 — to finish fourth at 289.

The area's other remaining entries, Tom Jacobson of Schaumburg and Scott Burkhardt of Arlington Heights, both wound up at 297.

Miller blasts baseball execs

NEW YORK — Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, Thursday labelled recent statements by a pair of chief executives "both inaccurate and destructive" to the welfare of baseball.

After 13 months of intense collective bargaining negotiations, including a three-week delay in the start of spring training, Miller and representatives of the Owners' Player Relations Committee finally ironed out details for a new basic agreement during the All-Star break in Philadelphia July 12-13.

"That settlement provides an opportunity for improving relationships, and for joint efforts toward making the agreement, with its many new provisions, work in the best interests of all concerned," Miller said in a prepared statement.

"Instead, the public statements of several club officials indicate a movement in the opposite direction."

The objects of Miller's attack are August A. Busch Jr. and John McHale, chief executive officers of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Montreal Expos, respectively.

Connors is Open top seed...

NEW YORK — Jimmy Connors, who has become a perennial bridesmaid in Grand Slam events since his 1974 victory at the U.S. Open, today was installed as top seed for the Forest Hills tennis championships which begins Sept. 1.

Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg was made the No. 2 seed with defending U.S. Open champion Manuel Orantes, who has been plagued by a sore arm the past few weeks, was seeded sixth.

Guillermo Vilas was installed as the No. 3 seed with the Italian and French Open winner Adriano Panatta seeded fourth. Ilie Nastase, who finished second to Borg at Wimbledon this year, was seeded fifth.

Defending U.S. Open champion Chris Evert, who has won 95 straight matches on clay courts, was installed as the top seed in the women's singles.

...and here is why

BROOKLINE, — Top seed Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., moved to the quarter-finals of the $125,000 U. S. Professional Tennis Championships by outlasting Czech Jiri Hrebec, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, in a two-hour struggle Thursday.

Other seeded players advancing included the "bagel twins" — Harold Solomon and Eddie Dibbs — Raul Ramirez and Adriano Panatta. Unseeded Paolo Bertolucci, who upset a lame-armed Manuel Orantes Wednesday, also advanced Thursday.

Connors, who played only 12 hours earlier, lost his first set of the 49th annual tournament when Hrebec broke his serve twice in a row using deep ground strokes to keep the deadly Connors away from the net.

Pro track on last legs

PORTLAND, Ore. — The International Track Association Thursday canceled its remaining three professional track meets in Minneapolis, Cleveland and Boston, blaming inability to attract Olympic athletes because they get more money under the table.

Shotput star Brian Oldfield thinks it may be the end of pro track.

ITA President Michael O'Hara said, "We did not anticipate the amateur athlete making the dollar he now is making and we predicted a lot more athletes coming to us."

"I guess this is it," Oldfield said at the ITA's final meet of the pro season in nearby Gresham, Ore., Wednesday night.

"It was kind of inevitable. The fans don't care, the management doesn't care, no one does."

U.S. women clobber Yugoslavia

PHILADELPHIA — The United States, reduced to two women because of a hand injury sustained by Chris Evert, Thursday got maximum points from Billie Jean King and Rosie Casals in defeating Yugoslavia 3-0, to advance into the quarter-finals of the Federation Cup tennis competition.

Bears get Laws from Cowboys

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bears Thursday acquired cornerback Henry Laws from the Dallas Cowboys and put linebacker Carl Gersbach on waivers.

Laws, who is 5-10 and weighs 169 pounds, played for the University of South Carolina and was the Cowboys' eighth draft choice this season.

Gersbach, a six-year veteran, came to the Bears last year when he was released by San Diego.

Arlington Park schedules polo match this Saturday

Few people know that when Arlington Park first opened in 1927-28 it contained a jumping course and polo field in the infield. In its 50th racing season, Arlington intends to relive those "Roaring 20s" with a variety of special events, including a polo match this Saturday and a jumping exhibition on Saturday, Sept. 11.

Saturday's polo match, beginning at 1 p.m., features outstanding polo players of the Polo Club of Chicago. The league, owned and operated by Richard Tauber and Arthur Mertz, includes three-man teams from Chicago, Milwaukee, and Detroit. It plays a 13-week schedule in the Water Tower Armory on Saturday nights, beginning Jan. 1.

Besides the "big city" teams, Chicagoans also can see teams from Barrington, Hinsdale, Oakbrook and Lake Forest in action during league play.

On Saturday, racing fans will be able to see some of the best of these players in action, starting with Billy Stevens, an international competitor who is rated seven goals indoor and three outdoor — one of the highest in the country.

Joining Billy will be Frank Rackley Jr., a four-goal player; Rudy Gutierrez, manager of the Glendale Polo Club; veterans Tauber and Mertz; and Tauber's son Billy, at 26 one of the up and coming Chicago stars.

Referee will be George Cokinis, former president of the Indoor Polo Assn. and referee at the Oak Brook polo matches, and Joe McGee, the Oak Brook announcer, will do the honors at the mike.

Saturday's polo match will be played on a medium field, midway between the 50 by 100-yard field used indoors and the 100 by 300-yard field used in outdoor international competition.

Modern Millie continues quarter-horse operation

Jim Murray

I guess it's no longer news that women are into thoroughbred racing. Marj Everett owns Hollywood Park. Diane Crump rode in the Kentucky Derby. Liz Whitney breaks her own yearlings, and kisses horses in the winner's circle. Lots of rich ladies own stables and feed sugar to 2-year-olds. One of them bit off Elizabeth Arden Graham's finger once. The stable area is the only place in the world where a "groom" might be a bride.

But, that's the drawing room side of racing. Those are people who buy horses instead of yachts. Quarter-horse racing is a far cry from Chanel No. 5. It's more like Eau de Corral, sweet essence of roundup. This is a sport for guys who roll their own cigarets, eat from chuckwagons, drink coffee from a can, and sleep with their hats on.

So, when Frank Vessels Jr., for reasons none of us could ever fathom, took his own life a couple of years ago, most of us figured his widow, Mildred, would sell off the family quarter-horse racing empire, the breeding farm, the Los Alamitos racing plant, brood mares, stallions, golf course and go off somewhere where you wouldn't smell a horse for years.

Instead, Millie moved into the family home only a furlong away from the finish pole at the track. Her son, Frank Nelson Vessels, moved next door and the Vessels family, which has been synonomous with California quarter-horse racing for a quarter of a century, still is.

Millie, doesn't run the business from the back of a pinto or with a vocabulary that's a cross between Annie Oakley and a mule driver. Thoroughly Modern Millie runs it with a Gucci outfit, hair styled in Beverly Hills, and the hand that runs the track wears bracelets. Billee the Kid wouldn't have understood it at all.

Millie didn't want to leave Los Alamitos any more than a Ford would want to leave River Rouge. She has been part of the quarter-horse racing empire here since the days when there wasn't any, and her father-in-law, Frank Vessels Sr., used to raise Hereford on the 1,000 acres where the track and golf course now stand.

In those days, newly married, she used to drive the tractor that pulled the plow that harrowed the track. Her husband used to stand on the back of it to force the rakes deeper.

The Vessels family used to stage informal Sunday afternoon match races, non-betting, or, at least, non-mutuel, between quarter-horse fanciers from all over the state. The sport grew so popular the family had to cut the meetings down to one a month — which was the last time anyone in the Vessels family moved for fewer racing days. Most of the next few years, Vessels Sr. spent lobbying in Sacramento for the legalization of quarter-horse pari-mutuel betting.

He finally got 11 days in 1951. In December. It only rained 11 of them. The "grandstand" consisted of planked seating covered with a mammoth canvas which held water which didn't run off. "It was my job," laughs Millie, "to go around with a stick with a nail in it and poke small holes in the canvas to let the water seep through before the canvas collapsed on us."

The "clubhouse" consisted of houses the family bought at auction which had been condemned to make way for the Santa Ana Freeway. Millie's job was decorating these houses so that they didn't look like tract homes with $2 windows in them.

Those were the days when the people who ran racing — i.e., Doc Strub at Santa Anita, and Jim Stewart at Hollywood Park — thought 100 days of races were all the traffic could bear in Southern California. And they would have to be over by sunup. The "Golden Goose" theory.

They relented in the case of quarter horses on the theory nobody wanted to bet on a race that was only 440 yards long. The truth of the matter is, every horse race is only a quarter of a mile long. The rest of it is just jockeying for position.

Quarter horses are the most popular breed in America. More than 97,000 were foaled last year, three times the number of registered thoroughbreds. Not all of them got to the races. Some are more favored for gymkhanas, barrel-racing, or rodeoing. And the horse - that - won - the - West is winning the East now, too. Quarterhorse tracks have opened in New Jersey and Louisiana and breeding operations have sprung up from Florida to Oregon.

Night racing, for some reason, proved more of a boon to quarter-horse racing than to harness, and Los Alamitos, which got the munificent sum of 17 days its second year, now runs 79 nights a year of its own racing, plus leasing out the track for another quarter-horse meet and a harness meet.

Millie runs this $750,000-a-night operation from a switchboard phone in her home, from breeding farms to lobbyists to judges' stands. For some, it may be like the schoolmarm running Dodge City, or the law in Tombstone wearing a Givenchy but, for the present at least, she's the one wearing the badge and, in this new model of the Old West, the marshal is a lady.

Women's softball league to expand to 14 squads

The International Women's Professional Softball Assn. expects to expand to 14 teams for 1977.

The 10-member IWPSA, America's only sports league for women, operates teams in Buffalo, N.Y., Chicago, Connecticut, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Arizona, San Diego, Santa Ana, Ca., Southern California and San Jose.

In announcing the expansion plans, commissioner Dennis Murphy emphasized groups filing applications for memberships will be carefully screened.

"We have several applications on file from groups and expect several more in the next couple of weeks. We will screen these applicants carefully and expect to find four solid cities to join the IWPSA. We will add two teams to each division," explained Murphy.

Midwestern applications are being accepted at the Chicago Ravens office, 9266 S. Cicero Ave., Oak Lawn, Ill., 60453.

Herzog's Royals quietly advancing toward playoffs

Milton Richman

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whitey Herzog knows Charlie Finely. He probably knows him better than any of the 14 managers Finley has had. Herzog once worked for Finley as a coach and turned down a chance to manage the A's. That's how well he knows Finley.

Whitely Herzog has his Kansas City Royals well out in front in the American League West and he knows Charlie Finley's habits and methods so well that he didn't have too much reaction recently when one of Finley's statements was called to his attention.

Finley said the Royals were going to choke and the A's were going to catch them and win in the West for the sixth straight year. Herzog knew Finley had said what he did hoping to upset the Royals and cut down the distance between them and the second place A's.

"They've been talking all year," says Herzog. "We've kept our mouths shut and played. So far, we've won 76 games. Our goal is to win 95-96. If we do that, we don't have to pay attention to what anybody says. Last year we won 91 games, which wasn't too bad. When I got here a year ago, we were 11 games back. We got within five and finished seven back."

The Royals, now in Cleveland, are in the middle of their longest road trip, and their most important one. They're 8½ games up on the A's and if they can get back home Sept. 3 with anywhere near the same kind of lead they have now, they can start making playoff plans.

Mindful of how close Kansas City came to surprising everybody last year, only to fall back in the final weeks, Herzog feels that experience automatically makes his ball club stronger this time around.

"We're loose, but we're not overconfident," he says. "We've got quite a few games left on this road trip. Every one is mighty important to us. When Finley said we were gonna choke, we were seven games ahead. Yeah, we all saw what he had to say in the papers, but we didn't make a big issue of it. If we win our share of ball games, what Charlie Finley says isn't going to make a whole lot of difference."

Win or lose, the blond, 44-year-old Herzog has done an outstanding job with the Royals this year especially considering he lost three of his top pitchers, Steve Busby, Paul Splittorff and Doug Bird, but he realizes if the Royals should stumble and fail to win, despite their excellent showing up to now, the season would be considered a disaster.

Bird, the 6-4 right-hander with the good fastball and slider who was the club's top reliever the past three seasons but converted into a regular starter this year, is the only one of the three back in action among the three pitchers who were sidelines with injuries.

"I don't know what other ball club has lost three pitchers like Busby, Splittorff and Bird," says Herzog, who can be thankful Dennis Leonard, Al Fitzmorris and Marty Pattin took up some of the slack among the starters and Mark Littell and Steve Mingori some of it among the relievers.

Herzog can also be grateful he has had hitters like Hal McRae, George Brett and Amos Otis available all year, and he is. McRae and Brett are running 1-2 for the American League batting title and although Otis' average doesn't match theirs, he has had a good year all around.

Right now, it looks as if Herzog will be managing against a long-time buddy of his, Billy Martin, in the American League playoffs. The Yankees' pitching would give them an edge but you know how that goes, anything can happen in a short series and nobody believes that more than Herzog.

"We played them 12 games this year and all of them went right down to the last out, the last pitch, except one," he says. "Only one game was lopsided, and we won it, 8-2. In the 12 Games we played the Yankees, we won 7 and lost 5."

Herzog deeps drawing a great deal of praise these days, and he always makes sure to channel it back to his players.

"I got good players," he says. "Not only good players, but good guys. Just because your team is winning doesn't make you a good manager. I just happened to step into a situation where the material already was there. It's the ballplayers who win the ball games, not the manager."

Sting deserved coverage for outstanding season

Fans Forum:

We certainly appreciate seeing the publicity given by your sports section to professional soccer on Friday (Aug. 20). The Chicago Sting deserves every bit of the attention they got throughout a very successful second season. The only sad thing about the Sting's season was that they were eliminated from the NASL playoffs so quickly. That and the fact that they are still struggling at the attendance gate.

It is unfortunate that soccer is taking its time to catch on in Chicago. This is evidently one of the only major markets where that is the case. And as Bob Frisk pointed out in his article Friday, that shouldn't be so since this city is starved for champions. You would think that the fans would flock to a winner.

We feel that continued good coverage of soccer in the papers and more and better soccer programs in the communities will help make soccer a very popular sport.

NICE JOB, LEGION TEAM

Sports Editor:

Just want to take the opportunity to write an open letter to coach Lloyd Meyer and his boys on the 1976 Arlington Heights American Legion team. Lloyd, you and your kids have done an awful lot for this area by showing the kind of sportsmanship and spirit that we can all be proud of. And we should all be grateful to you for bringing a state title to Arlington Heights. I'm sure all the players' parents are especially proud of them, too. But it's nice to know that Arlington Heights is represented by such a great bunch of people.

Congratulations to all of you and good luck in the regionals.

George Mill

OPTIMISM, NOT PESSIMISM

Dear Editor:

What's wrong with a little optimism at the beginning of the Bears' season? It's certainly better than downgrading the team right from the start. Just watch, the Bears will be better than you think.

Ricky Raskind

Fan's forum

A'S BETTER THAN EVER?

Fans Forum:

Wouldn't it be ironic if the Oakland A's ended up winning the American League Western Division title and the pennant after everything that's happened this year? And wouldn't it be especially ironic if they won because of Vida Blue, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi?

Amazing, it seems, that the team has perked up after the commissioner refused to validate Charlie Finley's controversial sales. What will happen if the A's win the World Series and then a court approves Finley's lawsuit and okays the sale? What will Finley do, sell his players anyway?

LIKES THE BALANCE

Dear Editor:

Here's a vote of confidence for your new-look sports page. It's a pleasure to be able to open the Herald each morning and see major league baseball standings, scores from the night before, box scores, and batting leaders. It seems that your sports section is better balanced now — it's not all local news.

Still, we'll be looking forward to reading about the upcoming high school season, especially the football. The Herald has always been out in front in prep coverage and we hope it continues. Thanks for all of it.

CAR CORNER

with George Orth & Roger Nick

When selecting a pair of replacement tires in the same size and construction as those that are already on your car, the newer tires should be placed on the rear wheels for better traction and handling. Many experts feel that motorists who develop tire problems on the front axle, because of skidding or disablement, still have some control over the vehicle. However, when the problem occurs on the rear wheels, most drivers have no way to compensate for skids or swerves — And that is where new tires can help.

Twenty factory-trained technicians are on hand full time to give personalized and expert service at RAY OLDSMOBILE, 501 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge! We service all GM cars and have a total commitment to customer satisfaction. Whether you bought your car here or not, we want your service business. We are the largest retail OLDS dealer in Illinois and have the #1 service department. Stop in and see George Orth or Roger Nick, service managers; we will make sure you are satisfied with work done on your car. Call us at 696-3200. We are open Mondays through Fridays from 7 A.M. until 6 P.M.

HELPFUL HINT

Bald tires on the rear appear to be more of a safety hazard than on the front, says a safety expert.

The rancher

Tennis comes to parched earth

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

BAKERSFIELD, Calif.—First, it was the golf course as the alluring arm of real estate development. Then it was the ski area to stimulate the hodgepodge of condominiums, chalets and ersatz Alpine lodges that over night meant little cities in sylvan settings. Now it is tennis, that new chic, trendy avocation of leisure-thirsty America, which is being used to promote bit money growth.

When you want to make things happen in a barren area, build a tennis complex. At least, that's what George Nickel has done. Bakersfield? Tennis? You got to be kidding.

Here, 15 miles east of the pumping oil wells that penetrate even into the city, a vista of 15 spic and span green tennis courts, abetted by modern lodges and other signs of vigorous civilization, suddenly protrudes from a brown gulch surrounded by bare knolls.

It's unbearably hot in the summer, but who cares?

This is the Rio Bravo Tennis Ranch, George Nickel's contribution to progress. Nickel is a rancher, California breed; Rio Bravo Ranch is all his — 16,000 acres of it. His total farm holdings encompass 50,000 acres in five different counties in the southern reaches of the fertile San Joaquin Valley. He patrols them with his own plane. His ranch managers have helicopters.

He is tall and lean, exept where his stomach juts out slightly. His hair is short, almost a burr-cut. He reminds me of Bum Phillips, the folksy football coach with the Houston Oilers. But George isn't your usual man of the land with hob-nailed boots and dusty jeans.He is a converted city slicker, born and raised in San Francisco and educated in history at the University of California in Berkeley (Gregory Peck was a classmate).

George realized the value of land and what grows on it. He got that, as well as a sizable chunk of real estate, from his great grandfather, Henry Miller. Henry came over from Brockenheim, Germany, in the gold rush days as a butcher, decided to raise his own beef and eventually accumulated a million acres of land in the west. Henry was a smart old bird. He read, so the story goes, that any California land under water could be claimed. So he filled a wagon full of water and drove it all over central California — if you believe the story.

With his inheritance, George moved to Bakersfield to grow cotton, citrus fruits, almonds, cattle and whatever else sells. He bought the Rio Bravo spread about a dozen years ago. Through it flows the Kern River, once known as the Rio Bravo, Merle Haggard, the country western singer, is his neighbor, on a bluff of the river where it spills out of the canyons at the southern end of the Sierra Nevada range.

Get 100 feet away from the river, however, and the land is parched and gravelly and lies ash-brown under a blazing sun which sends temperatures in mid-summer past the 100-degree mark.

George is determined to make it all green, and to call attention to his project. He borrowed a slow-drip irrigation method developed in Israel and has planted orange groves and table grapes. He points to a plateau across the river and says an almond grove will go in there. Pistachio nuts, too.

But the focal point of his efforts is the Rio Bravo Tennis Ranch. Which shows you what a couple of million dollars can do. George's interest in a tennis complex was stimulated by Dennis Ralson, a Bakersfield native, a Wimbledon finalist and former captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team. Together they plotted the tennis facility (Dennis has since dropped out of the picture). The 15 courts are joined by a lodge complex, an Olympic-sized pool and three outdoor Jacuzzis.

Now George is not only a rancher but a hotelier and a restauranteur. The dining room overlooking the courts features coq au vin and veal oscar on the menu — the girl reading the menu board can't pronounce coq au vin — and is presided over with Gallic charm by Michelle, a transplanted Frenchwoman all the way from Nancy, France.

But that's just a start toward the good life. On the blueprints are 200 condominium units. Ground-breaking starts imminently on 67 adjoining single dwelling lots. And George in his battered ranch car drives you over rutted paths to other majestic home sites on nearby ridges which hover over the countryside.

Next door is a well-tended 18-hole county golf course. Next to it is Lake Ming, diverted from the Kern River and then channeled back into it, a public facility for boating and water skiing. Down the rapids of the river upstream have already gone pleasure rafting expeditions. By next fall, Nickel hopes to put in a couple of polo fields. An equestrian ring has already been laid out. His social friends are urging him to lay out a steeplechase course so they can ride to the hounds.

All this exists in Bakersfield, the home of Buck Owens and his Buckaroos. It's Cowtown, Californ-eye-ay, with the oil wells thrown in. A year-round sophisticated resort seems anomalous.

But George Nickel doesn't think so.

Arlington Handicap on WGN Television

The $100,000 added "Arlington Handicap," rich in both tradition and uniqueness, will be telecast live on WGN Television, 9, from 5 - 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 28.

WGN's Rick Talley will handle the announcing duties for this 44th running. It promises to be a racing spectacular, testing this year's field over a distance of a mile and 3/16 on the turf of Arlington Park.

Heading the list of entries for the big purse and the famed "Houghton Bowl" trophy is Intrepid Hero, followed by Improviser, Victorian Prince, Famed Comedian, Bold Roll, Big Whippendeal, Proponent, Rooter, Senior Diplomat, Wise Scot and Old Frankfort.

Last year's winner, Royal Glint was injured last week and will not enter this year's field.

Cincy's Foster after baseball's challenging 'triple'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Any speculation about a hitter having a chance to win baseball's Triple Crown should always be preceded by this simple observation — it is nearly impossible to do.

Only a few players in the history of baseball have been able to deliver that perfect blend of power, consistency and clutch hitting it takes to lead the league in batting average, home runs and RBIs.

The select group includes Jimmy Foxx, Lou Gehrig, Ty Cobb, Rogers Hornsby (twice), Chuck Klein, Mickey Mantle, Joe Medwick, Frank Robinson, Ted Williams (twice) and, the last man to do it nine years ago, Carl Yastrzemski.

Now comes candidate George Foster.

"What it's basically going to take," admits George, "is a lot of luck."

But with another month to go in the season, the Cincinnati Reds left fielder had a legitimate shot at the Triple Crown. Statistics up to Aug. 25 showed Foster with a comfortable National League lead in RBIs, just four home runs off the pace and only 15 percentage points behind in average.

Foster's thoughts on his chances in each of the three categories:

Home runs: "This is going to be the hardest because I'm not basically a home run hitter. Dave Kingman and Mike Schmidt (who led Foster in Homers) possibly will wind up with more than I get. Kingman I know is swinging for home runs. I can tell that by how hard he swings, even after he has one or two strikes on him.

"I very rarely try to hit a home run. I sometimes do if we're behind by one run or if I think I've got a chance against a certain pitcher on the first pitch. But after I get one strike on me, the only thing I think about is making contact. The only thing I can do is keep making contact and hope that some line drives make it over the fence."

At that point, Kingman and Schmidt led the league with 32 homers, Foster was next with 28.

RBIs: "I've got a good chance to win the RBI title because I'm pretty far ahead now. I'm getting a lot of hits with men in scoring position and I feel I'm a better hitter with men on. I sometimes get better pitches to hit when men are on because pitchers don't want to walk another runner on. They try to pitch me tougher in that situation, but sometimes they're too careful not to walk me."

Foster had the NL lead in RBIs with 109, a sizable lead over teammate Joe Morgan, in second with 92.

Average: "I've been hanging in most of the season with a good average. But I'm still getting hurt by swinging at too many bad pitches. I should wait on my pitch more. I guess I'm still learning the strike zone. If I don't get over-anxious, I can keep my average up."

At the time, a short slump had dropped Foster's average to .320, which tied him for sixth, but he was still within close range of leaders Bill Madlock and Morgan at .335.

While Morgan also is doing well in all Triple Crown departments, it seemed unlikely he could catch Foster in RBIs. He also trailed Foster by three home runs.

"Right now I'm not thinking a lot about the Triple Crown," Foster claims. "But if I'm close in mid-September, I might be concentrating on it.

"It would be extra special to win because it is so difficult," he adds. "Just offhand I can only think of a few National Leaguers who have the power and consistency to be a Triple Crown winner — Morgan, Steve Garvey and Cesar Cedeno."

WMAQ radio to air Hawks

The Chicago Black Hawks and WMAQ Radio jointly announced that all 80 Black Hawk games for the 1976-77 season will be carried once again over WMAQ Radio's huge 50,000 watt clear channel signal.

In announcing the agreement, William Wirtz, president of the Black Hawks, said, "We are delighted to return to WMAQ Radio and continue along our successful relationship."

Charles Warner, general manager of WMAQ Radio, added, "The Wirtzes have invested $3 million to bring Bobby Orr to Chicago and WMAQ is tremendously excited about the prospects of the Black Hawks this coming season."

The season's first home game will be Sunday, Oct. 10, against Vancouver.

most advanced models there.

"The competition in wheelchair athletics is getting so tough that everybody is using tailor-made chairs," Wix remarked. "Something that works for me may not work for somebody else."

Wix's Toronto chair had small hand rims fastened to the wheel, forcing him to wear sweat bands on his elbows to protect where the wheel rubbed.

"No other chair in Toronto had the small handriums," Wix said. "The chair I'm working on now will be completely different. We're changing the metal, the wheels, the center of gravity. It will work for me."

All the light, sleek machinery won't help, though, if Wix can't push it faster than the next guy. His arms and torso are a body builders dream and he got that way doing two things, swimming and pushing his wheelchair.

Wix, who also plays for the Chicago Sidewinders wheelchair basketball team, joined teammate Don Vandello for a Pushathon recently to earn money.

In October, he will push in a wheelchair marathon.

"That should be interesting," Wix mused. "The Pushathon was only 15 miles. I've never pushed 26 miles. But they talked me into it. I think I can do it."

Bowl goal for Gophers; Stoll has 31 lettermen

by JOHN KNUDSEN

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — When Cal Stoll replaced Murray Warmath as football coach at Minnesota, he promised to turn the Gopher program around in five years.

This will be the fifth year of Stoll's program and the former Wake Forest coach believes his promise will become reality this fall.

Stoll doesn't predict a national championship but says, "Our goal is to go to a bowl this year and we're going to make it."

His optimism is based on a stingy defense and a strong passing game led by quarterback Tony Dungy, the Big Ten's top passer and total offense leader in 1975. There also is depth as 31 lettermen return from a team that was 6-5 over-all and 3-5 in league play last year.

"We want to win the Big Ten title and be invited to a bowl game," said Dungy, a 6-foot-1, 188-pound senior. "This is something that Minnesota has not done in 15 years, but we feel we have the talent and attitude to do it.

"I saw several players every day this summer and we are all together on one point — we can hardly wait for the season to start. Each of us believes we have turned the corner and are going to be a football power once again at Minnesota.

"All we need for help is our share of the breaks and a lot of good health."

Dungy, who already holds most of the Gopher passing records, wound up last season with 1,236 yards passing in conference play and his 13 scoring passes tied a Big Ten mark set by Purdue's Mike Phipps in 1969.

His favorite targets are Ron Kullas, who was second in conference receiving with 34 receptions for 436 yards, and Mike Jones, third with 25 catches for 389. Both are seniors.

Jones underwent an operation for cartilage damage in his left knee in mid-August and will probably miss the first five games. He will be replaced by sophomore Jeff Anhorn.

"We will miss Mike's experience," Stoll said, "but Anhorn has the speed, moves and ability like Jones to catch the ball.

"We throw and catch the ball well and we run up the middle with power, but we don't have a great deal of flank speed and that may be a problem."

Senior fullbacks Jim Perkins and Greg Barlow are strong, straight-ahead runners. The top tailbacks are senior Bubby Holmes, the Gophers' top rusher last season with 573 yards, and junior John Mathews. Kent Kitzman, a sophomore who missed all last year with a shoulder injury, is sound and is expected to see considerable action.

"With the exception of Brien Harvey at guard and Jeff Morrow at tackle, we've got some rebuilding to do in the offensive line," Stoll said.

Junior Kevin Naddy will be the center, with Greg Shoff, a 246-pound senior, at the other tackle position and senior Mark Slater at the other guard spot. Sophomores Greg Murtha and Glenn Bourquin are the top tight ends.

Fifteen lettermen, including eight starters, return on defense. The major graduation losses were tackle Keith Simons and free safety Doug Beaudoin.

"We will have a tough defense," said Stoll. "We may wind up with only two or three seniors starting but we still have experience. It should be a good unit."

The seniors expected to start are noseguard George Washington, who led the Big Ten in tackles last year, strong safety George Adzick ("The best in his position in the Big Ten," according to Stoll), and defensive end Ron Wrobel.

The defensive line will have junior Mark Merrill and Wrobel at the ends, and junior Steve Midbo and either Jim Ronan or Steve Cunningham, both sophomores, at tackle. The outside linebackers are juniors Steve Stewart and Michael Hunt.

Don't be fooled by fancy rustproofing promises.

The "proof" is in the process.

Ziebart because:

Rust can destroy a new car after a couple of years. Undercoating and conventional rustproofing don't do a complete job. Ziebart does.

Ziebart because:

We use 9 patented tools to get inside your new car's body and spray every inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make it really rustproof. And soundproof. And worth more money when you decide to sell it.

Ziebart because:

You may want to keep your new car for a couple of years or longer.

There's only one Ziebart rustproofing process. And there's only one place to get it. From us.

'More hair-dryers now' says Phillies' McCarver

by JOE JULIANO

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ask Tim McCarver the difference between the great St. Louis Cardinal clubs of the 1960s and the 1976 Philadelphia Phillies and he'll give you his most sincere look and a quick response.

"The biggest difference was that there are more hair-dryers now than there were in 1967 or 1968," said the World Series veteran on a team that hasn't won a pennant in 26 years. "Those old ballparks never did have enough outlets."

McCarver, who uses a keen sense of humor to keep his teammates and himself loose, is having more fun than usual in this, his 17th big league season. He is hitting .283 with 23 runs batted as a pinch-hitter and the catcher for his old friend, Steve Carlton, currently 16-4.

The performance isn't surprising for a man once considered one of the finest all-around catchers in the game. But it is a marked change from the beginning of last season when McCarver was the 25th man on the Boston Red Sox and apparently headed for the end of his career.

"It was fair to say I wasn't given an opportunity to play," the 34-year-old Tennesseean said. "The difficult part is that they didn't know my plusses, and tended to build up the negative. They didn't know me. I had to show them what I could do, tried too hard and ended up having a poor spring."

The Red Sox released him in July 1975, and the Phillies, for whom he played in 1970-1972, again signed him.

"That was the second time in my career that a team had me back," said McCarver, who played for St. Louis from 1959-1969 and 1973-1974.

"I think it's a compliment, although I guess when they let you go the first time it kind of lessens the compliment."

McCarver saw a lot of action earlier this year when catchers Bob Boone and Johnny Oates were injured. With Boone and Oates back, he has returned to pinch-hitting and spot catching duties, but it doesn't bother him.

"Look, I understand that when you have three catchern with the quality of ours, you still can only put one guy behind the plate," he said. "That's the nature of the game. I understand what the manager has to think about, at least more now than five years ago.

"In spring training, it was difficult to fit myself into the picture. But, of course, you don't think about injuries. I said at the beginning of the season, if I were given an opportunity to catch, I might surprise some people. And I have — myself included.

"I've been hitting the ball consistently well. But more important than the average, I've been getting key hits with men in scoring position. I'm not leaving that many men on base, and I know I'm not going to leave them out there when I'm in that situation."

McCarver played on the Cardinals' 1964, 1967 and 1968 pennant winners, and, with 21 games under his belt, has played in more World Series games than anyone else on the team. He sees the Phillies' younger players having no trouble coping with the pressure of post-season baseball.

"People fail to realize that these particular players, who are inexperienced, are threatening to run away with the division," he said. "We have a nice mixture of players on this team — the mature young player and the mature older player. They know how to go about their job.

"Pressure is part of the job. It goes hand-in-hand with throwing and hitting. There have been a lot of guys with talent that didn't make it because of their inability to cope with the pressure."

And for McCarver, one way to cope with it is to allow himself and others around him to enjoy a good laugh from time to time.

Softball charity series matches Warriors, Jaws

United Airlines' Flight Attendants' Softball Team will be battling in the second softball game of its annual charity series on Monday, Sept. 6, for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

United's "Winged Warriors" will be challenging Bob Sirott and the WLS Disc Jockey team, "The Jaws," at noon in Lincoln Park Diamond No. 1.

Prior to the Labor Day game, WLS Radio will take over-the-air pledges from listeners as donations to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. No tickets are necessary for the game and the public is invited.

The Winged Warriors will complete their 1976 softball series when they face the Chicago 20th District Policemen's team on Sept. 13 at 7 p.m. in Thillins Stadium at Devon and Kedzie. Donations will assist in defraying the cost of operating a free Community Services Bus provided by the 20th District Police in a program for the needy groups in their area.

Team members of the undefeated United team are stewardesses based at United's O'Hare Airport domicile and are led by returning team captain and pitcher, Jacquie (Spinner) Luga. Last season, the stewardess' team brought in about $2,000 for various charities.

TV coverage for Hambletonian Stake

The 51st running of the Hambletonian Stake in Illinois for three-year-old trotters, harness racing's most prestigious test, will be broadcast live as a CBS Sports Special on Saturday, Sept. 4.

The broadcast of the race will take place during CBS Sports' coverage of the United States Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y.

The classic racing event, which will be contested over the mile track of the Du Quoin (Ill.) State Fairgrounds, will be raced for a purse of approximately $240,000, according to W. R. (Bill) Hayes II, who supervises the race for the Hambletonian Society.

Public Notice

Public Notice is hereby given that the Board of Commissioners of the Arlington Heights Park District, Cook and Lake Counties, Illinois, adopted at a Regular Public meeting of said Board of Commissioners on the 23rd day of August, 1976, the following Resolution:

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, The Arlington Heights Park District, Cook and Lake Counties, Illinois is a duly organized and existing Park District created under the provisions of the laws of the state of Illinois and is now operating under the provisions of "The Park District Code", approved July 8, 1947 as Amended by Act approved May 17, 1951 and all laws amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto:

WHEREAS, Article 11.2 of "The Park District Code" as amended, authorizes the Arlington Heights Park District to levy and collect a tax for each of the years 1976, 1977, 1978 and 1979 on all of the taxable property in said District at a rate not to exceed .025% of the value, as equalized or assessed by the Department of Local Governmental Affairs, to provide monies for a Working Cash Fund; and

WHEREAS, it has heretofore been and it is hereby determined that it is necessary that the Arlington Heights Park District levy said tax of .025% on all of the taxable property in the District for the purpose of creating a Working Cash Fund, so as to enable said Park District to have in its treasury at all times sufficient money to meet demands thereon for ordinary expenditures for Corporate purposes.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Board of Commissioners of the Arlington Heights Park District, Cook and Lake Counties, Illinois, as follows:

SECTION 1: That the Arlington Heights Park District does hereby levy a tax of .025% on all the taxable property of said District to provide monies for a Working Cash Fund pursuant to "The Park District Code" as amended (Ch. 105 and Ill. Rev. Stats. Article 11.2, Sec. 11.2-1) for each of the four (4) Fiscal Years of said Park District beginning May 1 A.D., 1976 and ending April 30 A.D., 1977; beginning May 1 A.D., 1977 and ending April 30 A.D., 1978; and beginning May 1 A.D., 1978 and ending April 30 A.D., 1979; and beginning May 1 A.D., 1979 and ending April 30 A.D., 1980.

SECTION 2: That this resolution shall be published once in the "Arlington Herald," a newspaper published and having a general circulation in the Arlington Heights Park District, within ten (10) days after the adoption of this Resolution by the Board of Park Commissioners.

SECTION 3: That if within thirty (30) days from the date of adoption of this Resolution a petition is filed with the Secretary of the Arlington Heights Park District and signed by the electors, numbering at least 5% of the total number of electors voting for Park Commissioners at the last preceding general Park District election, asking that the question of levying and collecting such taxes be submitted to the electors of the District, then the Board of Commissioners shall cause such question to be submitted to the electors at the election to be held in the Park District in November 1976.

SECTION 4: That if no such petition is filed with the Secretary of the Arlington Heights Park District within thirty (30) days after publication of this Resolution, then the said Park District shall be authorized to levy and collect such taxes.

SECTION 5: That this Resolution shall be in full force and effect immediately upon passing.

Adopted this 23rd day of August 1976.

VILLAGE OF INVERNESS

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Corporate Authorities of the Village of Inverness on September 14th, 1976, at 8:30 p.m. in the Inverness Field House, Highland Road, in the Village of Inverness, for the purposes of considering the Annexation Agreement for the two parcels of property described as follows:

Parcel 1

The East half (½) of the Southwest Quarter (¼) of the Northeast Quarter (¼) of Section 18, Township 42 North, Range 10, East of the Third Principal Meridian, (excepting therefrom a strip of land East of a line drawn from a point two (2) feet West of the Northeast corner of said land and three (3) feet West of the Southeast corner thereof; and excepting therefrom the South 692.46 feet of the East 333 feet of the Southwest Quarter (¼) of the Northeast Quarter (¼) of Section 18 aforesaid), all in Cook County, Illinois.

Parcel 2

The Northwest Quarter (¼) of the southeast Quarter (¼) of Section 18, Township 42 North, Range 10, East of the Third Principal Meridian (excepting from said tract the West two (2) acres of said Northwest Quarter (¼) of the Southeast Quarter (¼) of said Section 18; and excepting from said tract a strip of land East of a line drawn from a point three (3) feet West of the Northeast corner of said Northwest Quarter (¼) of the Southeast Quarter (¼) and extending to a point on the East line of said Northwest Quarter (¼) of the Southeast Quarter (¼) above mentioned. Six Hundred Fifty-Eight and Eleven One-Hundredths (658.11) feet South of the Northeast corner thereof). All in Cook County, Illinois.

also

The West 4 rods of the Northwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section 18, Township 42 North, Range 10, East of the Third Principal Meridian, and the Southwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section 18, Township 42 North, Range, 10, East of the Third Principal Meridian, all in Cook County, Illinois.

also

The Southeast Quarter of the Southeast Quarter (except the South 650 feet of the West 320 feet thereof, and also except the North 669.85 feet of the East 50 feet thereof) of Section 18, Township 42 North, Range 10 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois.

The above described parcels of property lie generally North of Palatine Road, East of Roberts Road and extend North in an irregular manner, to Florence Avenue. It is proposed that such property be annexed to the Village of Inverness pursuant to said Annexation Agreements and the provisions thereof.

A copy of the Petition for Annexation and the proposed Annexation Agreements are available at the Office of the Village Clerk.

All interested parties are invited to attend the public hearing and will be given an opportunity to be heard.
